

Western Big Three To Create Nuclear Unit, Norstad Says

France, Britain, U. S. Each Plan to Provide Battalion

Paris —(AP)—The North Atlantic Alliance will create a unified U.S.-British-French force armed with nuclear weapons, Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, said today.

Each country would provide one Norstad battalion for the force, which would be under a single unified commander and staff.

The force would be armed with conventional as well as nuclear weapons, Norstad said, adding that he wanted to have the widest range of capability.

Norstad said the new unit would be a mobile task force designed for use wherever it is militarily or politically necessary throughout the NATO area.

He told a news conference it had been firmly decided to move ahead in this field and to establish the force in the course of next year.

The battalions will be pulled out of their national forces periodically for training, Norstad said, but otherwise will be left in place.

Norstad also said that the Bonn government had assured NATO that it will make no decision on establishing bases outside West Germany without agreement of NATO authorities.

Bonn had opened talks with Spain for supply and training bases. The move caused a storm of protest in Britain and to a lesser extent elsewhere.

The allied commander said two other nations will be asked later to contribute a battalion each to the nuclear striking force. He did not name the countries.

Norstad said aircraft and naval forces will be organized so that they can work promptly and effectively with the united force.

12 Known Dead, 68 Hurt in Crash of Train and Oil Rig

Rescuers are shown working to free passengers trapped in the telescoped first two cars of the San Francisco streamliner bound for Chicago which collided with an oil truck near Bakersfield, Calif.

Coaches Jackknifed and Set Aflame by Explosion, Blaze Engulfs Locomotive

Bakersfield, Calif. —(AP)—A swift Santa Fe passenger train and a 2-trailer oil rig collided last night with a mighty blast of oil that set wildly jackknifed coaches afire and shriveled the locomotive.

A Santa Fe spokesman said at least 12 persons were killed—2 of them still unidentified. The known dead included seven passengers, the train engineer and fireman, and the oil rig driver.

Hospitals treated 68 injured and of these, 45 remained hospitalized.

The San Francisco Chief No. 2, carrying 76 passengers, had left San Francisco at 11:15 a.m. and was rolling through lush cotton and alfalfa farmland about seven miles west of this oil-well city 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles. The time was 5:10 p.m.; the speed, a brakeman said, about 75 m.p.h.; the visibility fair—a cloudy sunset.

Unaccountably the oil rig carrying more than 7,000 gallons of high-gravity crude oil drove onto the tracks at the 4-way Allen road-Hageman road intersection. The train, approaching the rig at a 45-degree angle, slammed into it.

Trailer Explodes

The rear oil trailer wrapped around the locomotive and exploded with a thunderous flaming eruption seen four miles away.

The forward oil tanker was thrown 100 yards, badly damaged and leaking, but it did not catch fire.

The train veered crazily on its four diesel units aflame, its forward trucks batted off to one side of the tracks by the tremendous impact of the collision.

Nine of the 11 cars jackknifed into one another, some falling on their sides, like a row of huge steel dominoes.

California Chief Makes Appeal To Legislature

Sacramento, Calif. —(AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown, in the face of an uproar over the Caryl Chessman case, called upon an obviously reluctant legislature today to abolish the death penalty in California.

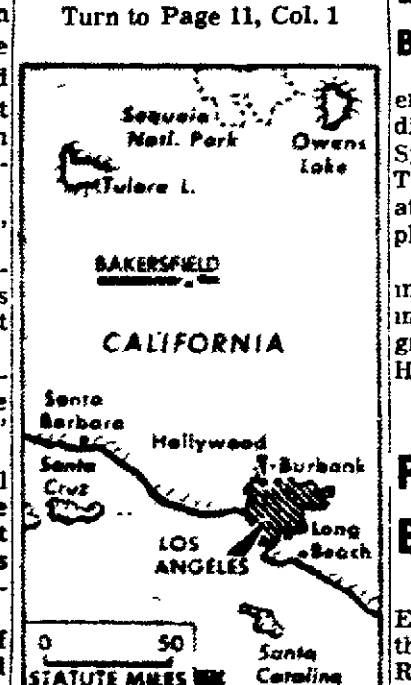

Capital punishment, he said, "beyond its horror and incivility," he said, "it has neither protected the innocent nor deterred the wicked."

Instead, he said it has primarily taken the lives of "the weak, the poor, the ignorant" and racial minorities.

The governor, in a special message, acknowledged the resistance to his proposal but urged the state's lawmakers to debate the issue "with reason and restraint."

There was no mention of Chessman, the condemned Los Angeles lover lane prowler who has fought off execution for almost 12 of his 38 years.

The repealer would mean life imprisonment for 24 prisoners awaiting execution.

President May Be GOP Keynote

Chicago —(AP)—President Eisenhower probably will be the keynote speaker at the Republican national convention in Chicago in July, says the vice chairman of convention arrangements.

Jaren L. Jones of Salt Lake City told newsmen yesterday that many party leaders favor the president for the opening address and that his acceptance could be considered a probability.

Jones said the president would be invited to stay in Chicago for the duration of the convention starting July 23, but added it is doubtful he would. The Republican party, not the government, would pay for Eisenhower's trip here, Jones added.

Disclosure Made at Hearing Into Garvin Gillham Murder Charges

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Waupaca — Garvin Lee Gillham, charged with first degree murder in the death of Frank Heideman, Jan. 8, said he intended to shoot his former wife and her employer, Heideman, while he drove from Chicago to New London, David Gillham, Garvin's nephew and driver on the trip, testified Tuesday.

T — 20-year-old eye witness of the slaying of the route 2, New London, farmer, made that disclosure hesitantly during the preliminary hearing on the charges facing his 33-year-old uncle. Both are from Chicago.

Most of the all-day hearing before Justice George Whalen was taken up by questioning of the eye witness and of County Patrolman Lyle McCully, who was wounded in a shooting exchange with Gillham during which Gillham also was wounded.

Gillham is charged with first degree murder in Heideman's death, attempted murder in the wounding of McCully and Gillham's divorced wife and doing great bodily injury to his former wife.

Red Cross Says Quake Toll May Grow to 3,000 Dead, 5,000 Hurt

BY STEPHEN O. HUGHES

Agadir, Morocco. —(AP)—Stunned survivors streamed from earthquake-ravaged Agadir today, and a Red Cross official estimated the toll at more than 3,000 dead and more than 5,000 injured.

The grim casualty prediction — 2,000 more dead than the initial Moroccan government estimate — was made by Dr. Albert A. Rainhard, who flew to Agadir from International Red Cross headquarters in Geneva.

Pleading cries meanwhile rose from the rubble of Agadir, and rescue workers searched for untrapped survivors and bodies.

A massive airlift was in progress, carrying the injured northward to hospitals in other African cities.

Europe, America and North Africa mobilized aid for the Atlantic coast resort shattered Monday night by two earthquakes and a tidal wave.

Evacuate Homes

Roads leading north were lined with dazed Moroccans, quitting their ruined homes. Some struggled along on foot, others on donkeys or horses.

Although French, American and Moroccan aid was beginning to pour in, the need remained desperate.

In the tattered Moorish tent he set up as an emergency headquarters, City Gov. Bou Amrani said he needed food, water, bulldozers and other mechanical equipment to clear the wreckage.

Water and gas mains were broken and empty. There was no electricity except from the emergency military generators which last night powered floodlights for the round-the-clock digging for bodies and survivors.

As dawn broke, smoke from quake-caused fires still hung over the city.

Evacuation of the shattered city—population 40,000 before the quake—was ordered, and thousands poured out into the surrounding fields for the night.

Mass Graves Dug

Mass graves were being dug for the victims, but there still was no accurate count of the dead and injured.

So far no American dead were reported. A number of Americans were apparently vacationing in the resort.

Rear Adm. Frank Akers, commander of the U.S. fleet air arm in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, said after touring Agadir a number of Americans were among the injured. Many, he said, had spent up to 12 hours trapped in the ruins.

A giant airlift of French and American military planes flew more than 1,000 injured to hospitals and emergency receiving stations in Casablanca, Rabat and other cities. As yet it was impossible to determine accurately who survived and who had died.

Hundreds of French and American troops and civilian rescue workers toiled through the night, clawing at the

Clipping Bureau Rates News Pages High on Content

Each day the Wisconsin Clipping Bureau at Madison, which peruses all Wisconsin publications on behalf of assorted clients, examines carefully five copies of the Post-Crescent.

It buys more copies of this newspaper than of most others in Wisconsin because of the wide variety and editorial content of its pages.

The fact that readers in this commercial bureau find a single copy of other newspapers adequate is suggestive of the broad news coverage and extensive feature budget of the Post-Crescent.

'Friendship Crusade' Hailed in Uruguay

Eisenhower Greeted Warmly by President Benito Nardone in Montevideo as Tour Nears End

Montevideo, Uruguay —(P)— President Eisenhower flew into Uruguay today on the last stop of his 4-nation South American tour.

He was greeted warmly by Benito Nardone, president of the national council, and praised for his "crusade of friendship."

"America is departing from the cold outline on the map to become the broad conscience of a common ideal and an harmonious union," the Uruguayan leader said at Carrasco airport, where Eisenhower arrived from Santiago, Chile.

"There has been a feeling of friendship among the peoples that were born in the same century of liberty and independence and who, as each attained their dream, has had that dream perpetuated by faith in their neighbor."

The president's public appearances in Montevideo were expected to attract the same sort of enthusiastic crowds that turned out at his earlier stops. But a reinforced police guard was ordered to one point on the route of Eisenhower's motorcade through the Uruguayan capital, the national university, where Vice President Richard M. Nixon ran into student jeers and catcalls on his visit two years ago.

Despite the precautionary guard, no such reception was expected for the president.

"Gov. Brown solved most of our problems," U. S. Ambassador Robert Woodward told a reporter, referring to the 60-day reprieve Gov. Edmund Brown of California gave condemned kidnaper Caryl Chessman. Woodward had advised the state department Chessman's execution might provoke anti-Eisenhower demonstrations in Montevideo.

Eisenhower's program also included a visit to the ruling 9-member council of government headed by Nardone, a speech to a joint session of the Uruguayan congress, and a dinner given by President Nardone.

Eisenhower leaves Montevideo Thursday morning for Puerto Rico and two days of rest before returning to Washington.

The last South American stop on the president's tour is a shiny, palm-fringed city where one-third of Uruguay's nearly three million citizens live.

Laird Says U. S. Will Have 518 Missiles by '63

No Deterrent Gap Congressman Claims Before Subcommittee

Washington —(P)— By 1963 the United States will have at least 518 missiles, each capable of destroying a Russian city, says a Republican member of the house defense appropriations subcommittee.

Rep. Melvin L. Laird (R-Wis.) said Tuesday the subcommittee "Does not share the views of some presidential hopefuls that our country is currently not spending enough on defense."

He made the statement as the subcommittee continued closed door hearings on the new defense budget.

"It is estimated that by 1963 the Russians will have 300 long range missiles capable of hitting United States targets," Laird said. "It should be remembered that the U. S. long range bomber force outnumbers the Russians' by many times."

"Our country has no deterrent gap. The use of these weapons by any country would be plain suicide. The important issue facing the United States is not spending additional billions on defense. The important issue is working out ironclad agreements for international inspection and control of modern weapons."

Consider Conference Of South American Countries About Arms

Eisenhower, Dillon Endorse Idea Of Demilitarization for Nations

Washington —(P)— A conference of the 10 South American nations on arms reduction was reported under active consideration today.

Uruguay, a nation which already is practically demilitarized, has been suggested as the site for the conference, and June or July have been proposed as dates.

Both President Eisenhower and Acting Sec. of State Douglas Dillon endorsed the idea of arms reduction Tuesday. The president, speaking in Santiago, Chile, pledged U. S. cooperation in any such meeting.

Chile's President Jorge Alessandri has been an outspoken advocate of arms reduction, saying expenditures for armies, navies and air forces could better be spent on economic development and social progress.

U. S. officials here stressed that the initiative for such a conference has to come from South America, but that this there is not enough feeling of urgency in this program.

"I want NASA, Latin American diplomats (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) to undertake and leapfrog Russia in this field, and I think there are several areas in which we could move faster. But they said this is all the money they could spend economically."

The $915 million is the full amount requested for NASA by the administration, plus another $113 million requested last month by President Eisenhower.

Brooks said he expects the house to pass actual appropriations for the full sum.

$915 Million Space Budget Suggested

Washington —(P)— The house space committee has approved a bill to authorize $915 million for the national space program in the next fiscal year.

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) said Tuesday he wishes it was even more.

"I'm still disturbed that there is not enough feeling of urgency in this program," Brooks said. "I want NASA, Latin American diplomats (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) to undertake and leapfrog Russia in this field, and I think there are several areas in which we could move faster. But they said this is all the money they could spend economically."

The $915 million is the full amount requested for NASA by the administration, plus another $113 million requested last month by President Eisenhower.

Brooks said he expects the house to pass actual appropriations for the full sum.

Committee to Question Khrushchev on Last Leg of 3-Week Tour

'Only Bought One Lousy Lot,' Comedian Says in San Francisco

San Francisco —(P)— Jack Paar is heading back to New York today, jaunty enough after a vacation in the Far East to talk back to a congressional subcommittee.

Paar, who walked off the National Broadcasting company's Jack Paar show last month in a dispute over a joke, was told the subcommittee wants to see a film of his Jan. 12 show.

Shown then was waterfront property the comedian bought at Biscayne, Fla. Committee men said they wanted to know if the show was commercial and, if so, who sponsored it.

Paar denied there was any commercial interest in the film on his show. "It's absolutely untrue," he said. "There have been no gimmicks and no tricks." He said as he arrived in San Francisco by airplane from Honolulu.

"I'm shocked at the reported investigation. I think it stinks," he added.

"Why I only bought one lousy little lot. That's all they're talking about. Just one lousy lot. Well, it isn't lousy, just big enough for me to build a house on. I got another for my daughter, Randy."

He explained Randy is 11 today. "Why don't they investigate my daughter? It would be the first investigation of a father and daughter." Randy's holdings are not connected with his development, he said.

Soviet Premier Given Welcome In Afghanistan

Kabul, Afghanistan —(P)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived by plane from Calcutta today for the final stop of his 3-week South Asian tour.

King Mohammed Zahir Shah greeted the Russian at the airport, hailing his visit as another step to strengthen good will between neighbors.

Khrushchev replied that Soviet-Afghan relations provided the finest example of coexistence between states with different political and economic systems. He added that the Afghan policy is a positive force for peace.

A crowd of about 500 persons, mostly Russians, stood in pale sunshine at the airport, some 30 miles from Kabul, to welcome the Soviet premier.

Riding into town in an open car, Khrushchev waved repeatedly to turbaned Afghans gathered at various points along the way.

The mountain-rimmed capital of this neutralist nation of 12 million was festively decked out for a big welcome. Local observers said the reception was about equal to that for President Eisenhower last December, when an estimated 500,000 turned out.

Khrushchev will meet frequently with the king and Premier Mohammed Daud during his 4-day stay.

Some observers expect him to announce more economic assistance for the little country on Russia's doorstep. Moscow already has poured about $200 million worth of economic aid into Afghanistan along with substantial military assistance.

Khrushchev arrived at the peak of a propaganda battle between Afghanistan and Pakistan, the western-oriented neighbor to the south.

Focal point of the quarrel is a long-standing disagreement involving about four million tribesmen in Pakistan who speak Pushtu, the language of the Pathans, who stand for Afghanistan's largest single population group.

The company said it is willing to discuss wages and to change the contractual word pertaining to seniority and job portions of the contract. The old contract expired at midnight Monday.

Morris Fields, a UAW executive director, said the J. I. Case would be struck March 7 and workers at Rockford, Ill., will carry out a strike if the strike is carried out. Union members cast a strike authorization vote last month.

INJURY TO SPINE IS LIKE BLITZKRIEG

The spinal chord is like a telephone cable only more complex than any ever devised by man. Nature considers this structure so important that she encases it in sections of bone known as vertebrae; and the all-important central, the brain, in a shell of bone.

Four hundred and fifty trillion individual nerve wires composing a constant stream of messages between the brain and all parts of the body. All function in the body is coordinated and controlled by these messages sent from the brain.

The first aim of a "blitzkrieg" is to disrupt communication systems, thus throwing the enemy into a state of turmoil and lowering their resistance. Injury to the spine likewise upsets the delicate communication systems, disrupting function in the body, and exposing it to disease. Chiropractic deals with nerves. Investigate what it can do for your health.

Boy's Curiosity Stymies Burglars

Melrose, N. M. —(P)— The curiosity of a boy broke up a bank burglary Tuesday.

The boy, who was walking home in the early morning darkness, saw a light flickering in the back of the First National bank.

He looked through a window.

One of two burglars threw a crowbar at him, breaking the window.

The boy, unidentified at the request of the FBI, fled, bleeding from slight cuts. He ran home and called police.

In the meantime, the burglars left without any loot.

Officers said they had cut two holes in the 2-inch steel door of a vault but had not opened it.

Kuehn Attacks Democrats in Sheboygan Talk

By The Associated Press

Philip G. Kuehn, candidate for the Republican endorsement for governor, said Tuesday night that the Democratic administration "tried to pay off a campaign debt to organized labor through virtual repeal of the Wisconsin Employment Peace Act."

Kuehn talked at a Sheboygan Republican rally.

"All segments of our industrial communities have prospered under the 20-year-old labor peace act," he said.

Kuehn contended that the Democratic-controlled assembly approved major revisions in the act but the Republicans in the senate killed the proposal.

Jack Olson, Wisconsin Dells, also a Republican candidate for governor, said in a speech at Sparta Tuesday that Wisconsin must make comprehensive long-range plans for highways, schools, utilities and public facilities. He predicted that the state would have a 17 per cent growth in the next decade.

Dispute Over Flight Levels Caused by Jets

Air France Begins New Service From Paris to Berlin

Paris —(P)— U. S. concern over a new low-level French jet service to west Berlin helped trigger the allied decision to resume high level military flights to the isolated city, reliable informants said today.

Air France began daily Caravelle jet service from Paris to Berlin, via Frankfurt, on Feb. 24. Air France directed its pilots to fly at about 10,000 feet, which the Russians say is the altitude limit under big four agreements. The western big three have never accepted this limitation.

Informants familiar with the background of the decision to resume high altitude military flights gave this reasoning:

Make Decision

It was feared that unless such a decision was made, the Russians—noting the Air France flights at 10,000 feet—would assume the west had given de facto agreement to the altitude limitation.

The United States reportedly felt it necessary to underscore to the Russians that the 10,000 foot ceiling is clearly not acceptable. It was felt imperative to point out that military flights are in no way affected by the Air France decision.

France agreed with the United States that the principle of high level flying must be reasserted at this time. French officials said. On the other hand, informants here said, Britain's decision to join in the decision was reluctant.

The United States sent C-130 turbo-jet planes to west Berlin at altitudes above 10,000 feet last March and April. Soviet fighters swept close to the planes to back up Russian protests. The United States decided to call off the high level flight test it took the west was deliberately seeking an incident.

J. I. Case Workers Vote For Strike

Racine —(P)— The executive board of United Auto Workers Local 180 at the J. I. Case company plant here Tuesday night voted for a March 9 strike deadline if the company and union haven't agreed on a new contract by then.

The action by the executive board followed an announcement earlier Tuesday that officers of the union were in favor of going on strike to end the local's contract demands. Approval was required from the executive board.

The firm has about 1,900 workers in Racine but not all are members of the union. The last strike at Case ended in 1947.

Local 180 said it is seeking a wage increase and what it called 18 other points taking up union recognition, fringe benefits and other subjects "standard for other union contracts in the agricultural implement field."

The company said it is willing to discuss wages and to change the contractual word pertaining to seniority and job portions of the contract. The old contract expired at midnight Monday.

Morris Fields, a UAW executive director, said the J. I. Case would be struck March 7 and workers at Rockford, Ill., will carry out a strike if the strike is carried out. Union members cast a strike authorization vote last month.

South Reluctantly Accepts Integration

Choice Becomes Between Closing Schools or Some Racial Mixing

BY SAMUEL LUBELL

The last year has brought a significant shift in the attitudes of many Southerners toward school desegregation.

At least in the larger southern cities the mood of last-ditch defiance of the supreme court is giving way to a reluctant, half-hearted but definite readiness to accept some degree of mixing of Negro and white school children.

Throughout the south the school conflict is moving to a showdown choice of closing the public schools or accepting some degree of integration.

Asked which of these courses they would take, two out of three persons interviewed in 10 Southern cities replied, "Better keep the schools open, even with a few Negroes in them."

Lubell

Change Since 1958

In 1958 an earlier survey did in many of these same cities showed only one-fourth of the people favored integration.

Significantly, token integration draws its greatest support in communities where public schools were closed and private schools were tried and abandoned. In Norfolk and Little Rock the proportion wanting public schools kept open ran five to one.

Two years ago one Little Rock resident declared, "I'd rather see Central High school burned to ashes than have it infested with niggers. That's because I'm a father."

Now this man's wife says, "It makes no difference whether the schools are mixed or segregated as long as they're quiet."

Again, an elderly man I interviewed in 1958 had sworn, "We never will let any niggers into our schools." He had branded the supreme court as "a bunch of communists," cursed "bucktoothed" Mrs. Roosevelt and had talked of bringing economic pressure on the Negroes "to grind them down so they'll come hat in hand and beg for a job."

When I saw him recently, there was little fight left in him. At one point he remarked, "It's better this way than having the schools closed." In other Southern cities, which have not gone through the ordeal of closed public schools, more opposition is voiced to even token integration.

This opposition seems strongest among people who are elderly or retired; and among lower-income workers. In worker neighborhoods protests against desegregation often merge with fear of economic competition. "Let them stay in their own schools!" protested a tobacco worker in Richmond, Va. "I don't want a Negro foreman over me."

Private Schools Costly

Some segregationists swear that if there is any integration "we'll take our kids out of school and teach 'em ourselves as well as we can." Others vow, "I'd scrub floors to send my girl to private school." In Atlanta one elderly man volunteered, "I'd give $10 out of my pension to help poor people keep their children in private schools."

But for many other workers the price of closing the public schools looms much too high. "I'd like to send my boy to a private school without any coloreds," explained one Atlanta utility mechanic, "but all the savings I have is a life insurance policy. If I use that now we won't have anything left for the boy's college."

This man's 13-year-old son, who was listening, interrupted, "I'd rather go to school with Negroes than to private school. If I stay away from them, they won't bother me." (Copyright, 1960)

Another man recalled, "We sent our boy to his grandparents in another state but his wife missed him so much she was crying all the time." Another indication of the changed temper in the community was the reaction to the recent bombing of the home of one of the Negro children attending Central High school. Two Negroes have been arrested for the bombing, but at the time of my interviewing the responsible party or parties was still a mystery. Not even ardent segregationists defended the bombing. Typical of most of the comments given me were such remarks as, "It's deplorable" or, "If they find out who did it they'll run him out of town on a rail."

But perhaps the best evidence of easing tensions may be the fact that some Little Rock residents are finding humor in the situation. Asked how the school thing is going, a tailor replied jovially, "We're having no more trouble. There's a joke going around that this year's senior class is going to put out two yearbooks. One will be called 'Who's Who' and the other 'Who Dat'."

Giving of Oneself Leads To Full Life

Pastor Suggests Gifts of Thought, Word and Deed

through thought, word and deed. The Rev. H. Shelby Lee, pastor of First Congregational church, said in his sermon Sunday, "Behind the facade of modern life there is a surging interest in the meaning of human existence, and there is a real search on for a satisfying and fulfilling way of life. It may even be that the search is too intense, or at least, too direct," the pastor said.

He quoted Jesus' statement, wife were the only Europeans in an African reserve of 10,000 natives. In 1946 he was elected to the parliament. After federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, Todd served as prime minister, minister of native education and minister of labor.

"He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it." Jesus does not agree with those who say life is found by every man thinking of and working for himself, the Rev. Mr. Lee said.

"He goes so far as to say that the man who concentrates on himself, who lives for himself, will lose his life. It is the loving and shared life that is fulfilled and made whole."

"Let us go further and see that the promise of life is not to those who merely believe in losing their lives, not to those who talk about altruistic living, but to those who actually do it."

"Thoughts of Love"

"Let me suggest we try giving ourselves away through our thoughts. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. I am sure that man, capable as he is, knows very little about the power of thought."

"Let us give ourselves away through our thoughts of love. Let us go further and try giving ourselves away through our words. We can, by taking thought, plan to use words helpfully and healingly. We can give ourselves away through words of kindness. There is no stronger expression than a kindly word aptly and fittingly spoken."

The pastor suggested the use of words of appreciation as a beginning — appreciation of strangers or members of one's family.

The Rev. Mr. Lee also suggested giving through deeds. "Thoughts and words are important, but the great Ibsen said, 'A thousand words will not leave so deep an impression as one deed.'"

Shoestrings Used by Institutions Would Stretch for 78 Miles

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — A bulletin of the state department of public welfare graphically illustrates the mountains of supplies consumed by its thousands of charges in many welfare institutions during a year.

The small item of shoestrings, said the agency, would amount to a span of 78 miles, or the distance from Madison to Milwaukee, if all the strings used in a year were placed end to end.

Humphrey 'Do or Die' Plan Official

Includes Top

Post-Crescent News Service

Madison—Sen. Hubert Humphrey Tuesday formally filed his "do it or die" presidential candidacy in the Wisconsin April 5 primary. He presented a list of delegates to the Wisconsin secretary of state showing he depends heavily upon the backing of organized labor in the traditional progressive political forces of Wisconsin.

Humphrey is engaged in a struggle here with Sen. John Kennedy, who also regards a decisive Wisconsin delegate victory as essential to his chances to capture the 1960 presidential nomination of his party.

Four widely known labor organization officers were conspicuous on the Humphrey state delegate slate. Others are prominent organization Democrats.

The list is headed by George Haberman, president of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO, who has flirted with Republican presidential candidates in the past. Others are John Heidenrich, Milwaukee, chairman of the district council of international association of machinists, Sam Rizzo, Racine, a UAW international representative and chairman of the Wisconsin Humphrey campaign committee, and Harvey Kitzman, Racine, regional director of the UAW.

Other state at-large delegate candidates are Lt. Gov. Philo Nash, Wisconsin Rapids; state Sen. Carl Thompson, Dane county; Donald K. Hardie, Jackson county, Democratic majority leader of Wisconsin assembly; Mrs. Ethel McMurray, Stevens Point, a leader of party organization in the Seventh congressional district, and Prof. Carl Auerbach, a university of Wisconsin professor of law.

Sen. Humphrey announced his delegates, if elected, will also fight "for a Democratic party platform worthy of our party's great liberal and progressive tradition."

He said the platform should include strong planks on peace, support for family farmers, national security, labor management relations, economic growth, social welfare and civil rights.

Lawrence International Club to Sponsor Speech

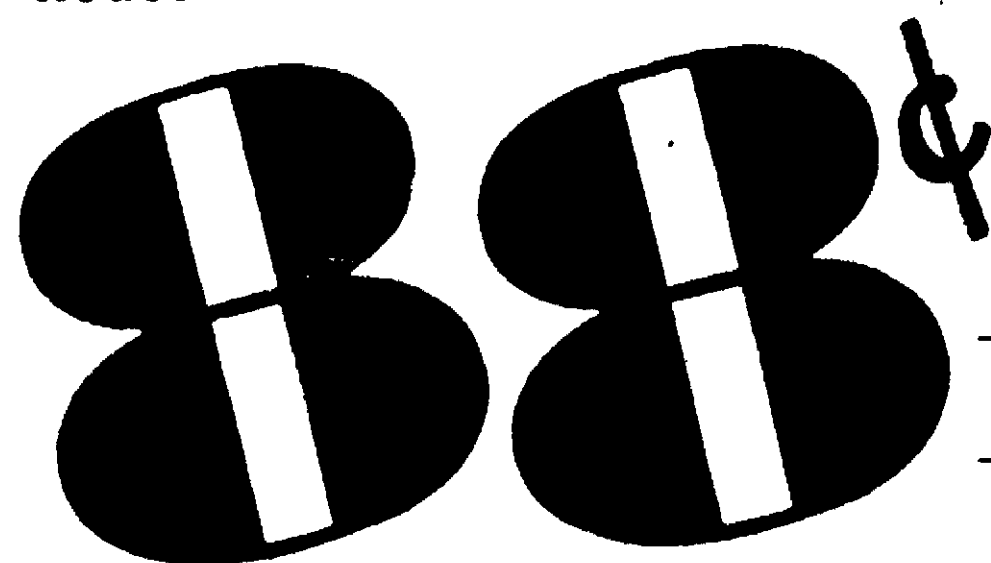

"Sino Soviet Relations" is the topic to be discussed by Dr. Jerzy A. Modelski of the University of Chicago at a meeting sponsored by the Lawrence International club at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Worcester Art center.

A native of Poland, Dr. Modelski has studied in Britain and Australia, and is now a member of Chicago's political science department.

A coffee hour will follow the discussion.

Ignoring the Inevitable

Whether the "sitdowns" by Negroes at lunch counters in various southern cities have been "fomented and planned" by northern groups, as charged by Sen. Russell, or developed somewhat spontaneously is really not very important. The point, as Sen. Russell and those like him really know but are deathly afraid of admitting to themselves, is that Negroes have found another and quite effective weapon to use against segregation in the South.

A picture was printed in many of Sunday's newspapers showing white men attacking Negro women and girls with miniature baseball bats in Montgomery, Ala. What a commentary it is on "southern manhood" to see these defenseless women and girls cowering before their attackers, attempting to ward off the blows with their bare hands! We are sure that Sen. Russell and the many other fine men who hold high office in the southern states must cringe with shame to see such a thing. Yet men attacking defenseless women with baseball bats is the inevitable result of the position that has been assumed by these very leaders — that segregation is inviolable, not to be questioned or challenged, not to be compromised in any way.

The southerners long ago painted themselves into a corner on the matter of segregation just as their grandfathers did on the subject of slavery a century ago. They refuse all compromise, refuse to sit down with Negro leaders or white liberals to work out any gradual and orderly transition from the basically immoral and impossible-to-maintain system of segregation to a system that is acceptable to the rest of the United States and to the world at large.

Sen. Russell is perfectly correct when he says that many northern newspapers show bias in their handling of racial news from the South, as in the case of the bombing of a Negro's home in Little Rock where the bombing itself received large headlines throughout the country but the later revealed fact that two Negroes had committed it did not receive similar attention. He is also correct when he says that most white southerners feel they are being "baited like animals" by northern anti-segregationists. But the people of the South have been put in this position by their leaders who have assumed an attitude of inflexibility on the racial question, an attitude which has made inevitable the adoption of such tactics as the sitdown, the bus strike and other kinds of passive resistance. And it is to the credit of the Negro leaders and the white liberals that their tactics rarely have been those of violence and bloodshed; instead they are applying a slow, insistent and remorseless pressure which is pushing the segregationists back step by step and eventually will defeat them completely.

Moderate people in the North — who are in the vast majority — would, we are sure, accept any reasonable plan from the southern leaders designed to bring about integration slowly and in an orderly fashion so long as its eventual goal would be a system of equality acceptable under our Judeo-Christian traditions and the principles of American democracy. But no such plan has been forthcoming, so the pressure continues.

Nixon Has Made Vice Presidency Important

During Vice President Nixon's visit to Milwaukee recently he told newspaper reporters that the old methods used to select vice presidential candidates are obsolete.

The old method was to select a candidate whom the party leaders believed could carry along with him the strong support of the section of the country in which he lived.

There was no thought, or very little thought, of his other qualifications for the office for indeed little was required of him except to preside over the Senate. All of this changed because of the relationship between President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. In the past, the candidate for president has been consulted on the selection of a vice president but the main reason for the selection often was the belief that the candidate might add some strength to the ticket. Vice President Nixon, it generally is conceded, will be the Republican candidate for president. As such he undoubtedly will have a great deal to say about the choice of vice president. He laid down his version of the new rules for such a choice which very briefly are that the candidate should have views similar to those of the president, be able to handle the expanding duties of vice president, and be able to serve as president.

In the past, when a vice presidential candidate was chosen, it was well known that he might step into the office of president upon the death of his superior but little thought was given to that possibility for no party nominates a man for president with any thought that he will die in office.

Voluntary ROTC Restored

We don't know who might have advised those University of Wisconsin students last year who used a new approach in the perennial request to the legislature to get rid of the state statute requiring all male undergraduates at the school to enroll for two years of military training in the Reserve Officers Training corps.

But subsequent events have shown that their maneuver was a shrewd one, expertly designed to appeal to the equivocal character of legislative politics. The students proposed that the legislature modify the law to the extent that the decision about compulsion for freshmen and sophomore students should be left to the university regents, and that the regents be directed to consult the faculty for advice.

The faculty promptly voted for the restoration of the voluntary system of other days, and the regents, after some hesitation and backtracking, have now concluded by a decisive vote that starting next term the compulsory program will be abolished.

We have a notion that the decision was the proper one, in part because the U. S. Department of Defense made no objection when the regents asked for its views, but also because a training system that is designed to produce officers probably ought not to rely upon force.

The regents have announced that the voluntary program will continue for the next two academic years, during which they will observe whether a sufficient number of students voluntarily enroll for the training course to produce the share of officer candidates the defense establishment says it needs. Implicit in the position of the governing board is the idea that the compulsory rule may be reinstated, although most guesses are against it.

The people of the state in appraising this long drawn discussion and debate ought to remember, we believe, that the young men who enroll at the university are normally subject to military service under the law of the land, during or after their academic studies. Whether they want to prepare for commissions as officers, or enter the services through selective service channels, probably ought to be left to their own decision. It may also be relevant that the old law applied only to university students, and thus to a degree was discriminatory. It did not cover students at private schools and colleges, most of the state colleges, the vocational schools or other post-high school educational institutions.

Cuba's Big Sugar Deal

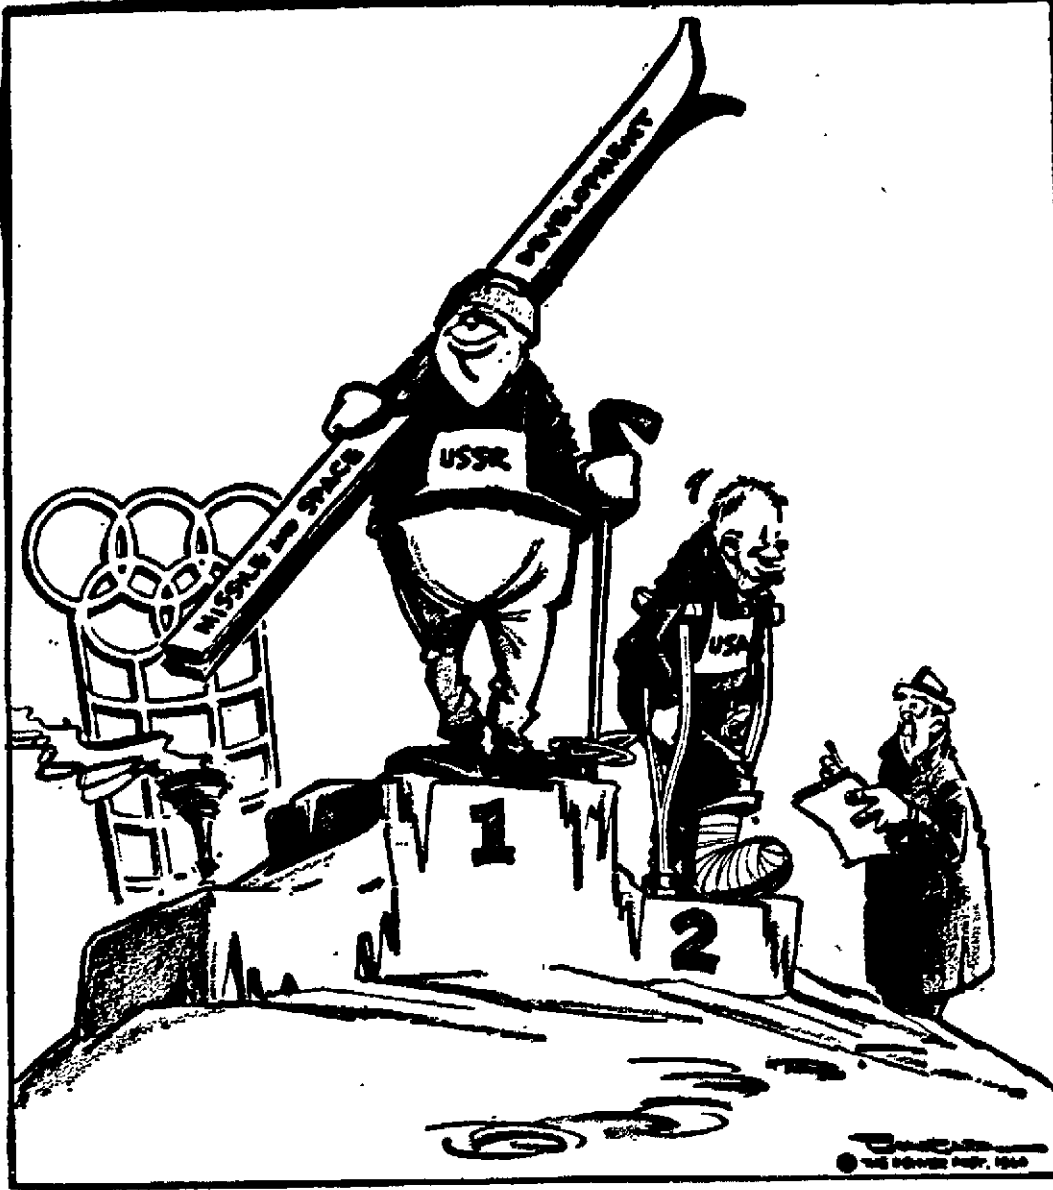

Cuba's Castro, obviously aware that his belligerent attitude toward the United States may eventually lose his country its big sugar market over here, has made a deal with Russia that has been widely touted to the Cuban people as beneficial and wonderful. It isn't.

Russia has agreed to buy a million tons per year of Cuban sugar at the world market price, paying one-fifth in cash and the rest in Russian goods, whose value will be determined by the Russians. In contrast, our Sugar Act commits us to buy three million tons per year and pay in United States dollars about two cents per pound more than the market price. In effect we are subsidizing the Cuban government so it can afford to have the deal with Russia.

But, politically, the United States provides a convenient whipping boy for a lot of Latin American politicians. Castro, either because he is a Communist or dupe of the Reds or because he feels the role of kicking the United States in the nose is worth the loss of sugar income, has chosen the financial risk.

Administration officials seem to figure that the Cuban people will find out for themselves what a bad deal their leaders made with the Soviet Union. But in a nation where the press is controlled, it is unlikely that very much will be published or even whispered about the inequities.

Selective Foreign Aid Program Will Show Immediate Results

From The Washington Post

Progressive forces in the Eisenhower administration have made a significant breakthrough of their own in the new approach to foreign aid which the president has approved. If congress goes along, this will mean substantially more loan funds at relatively little additional expense for countries where there is a realistic prospect of early economic takeoff — specifically India, to a lesser extent Pakistan, and interestingly enough, Taiwan.

Under Sec. of State Dillon and his colleagues in the international Co-operation administration have thus won their point in the $4.175-billion budget request for mutual security.

Behind the new selective approach is the philosophical recognition that too much of American aid has been scattered, designed to shore up one country and encourage another, but not concentrated in enough volume to produce major results in those countries which are making strenuous efforts to help themselves. The revised formula aims at quicker action in a few countries where the economies are near the point of self-generation.

Thus the new planning will permit additional emphasis on the countries listed above as well as upon Latin America, particularly Brazil. The new countries of Africa will be helped to prepare their economic organization and administrative machinery. Obviously it will be necessary to pare certain projects in other countries and to keep still others on a modest basis, but this is only prudent from the standpoint of capacity and investment. The program will of course have to be coordinated carefully with the efforts of other capital exporting nations through the revised Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

India is the most noteworthy example of a nation that has been making gargantuan efforts through its five-year plan. The objective is to double the rate of capital assistance so that the combined total of loans from the United States, the World Bank and such other countries as Britain, Germany and Japan will approximate $1 billion a year. The expectation is that within a decade or so India will double its living standard and begin to generate its own capital. Pakistan under President Ayub Khan has been organizing to meet its own expansion needs, and the hope is to keep it roughly abreast of India.

Capital help to these two countries would be exclusive of the separate plans to assist Pakistan and India in the Indus river water diversion project. This long-standing difference between the two countries is virtually at the point of settlement through efforts of the World Bank, and agreement should make possible a marked harmonization in Indo-Pakistani relationships.

The decision to include Taiwan is more than a political gimmick to attract support of the Formosa devotees. Chiang Kai-shek's military forces apart, the economy of Taiwan has been growing at a fantastic rate. Not only have the rural rehabilitation efforts been a notable success, but annual investment is now running at a rate of 21 per cent of the gross national product. The hope is that perhaps a 25 per cent increase in American loans can double the amount of investment within 5 to 7 years and thus bring Taiwan to the sort of economic expansion achieved by Japan. This would make Taiwan a showpiece and would probably make possible an end to direct American economic aid.

Two considerations are essential if the new selective approach is to take hold. The first, as noted above, will be to work with European and Asian nations which must increase their own contributions, in a comprehensive effort in the underdeveloped countries. Incidentally, the Administration also would do well to revise the silly "Buy American" restriction on the Development Loan fund which already has necessitated an increase in a loan to Pakistan from $20 to $22 million and which may increase costs to India on some items up to 50 per cent.

The other essential consideration is broad groundwork in congress. It will be imperative, for example, to obtain the full $700 million in new capital asked for the Development Loan fund. President Eisenhower invited considerable resentment last year when he flipfopped on the question of long-term authority for the DLF after Sen. Fulbright had attempted to help the administration. Nevertheless, the new selectivity is what many members of congress have

Crescent Answers Racine Jibe

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of March 3, 1860.

The Racine Democrat, known among the fraternity as the Racine Grumbler, criticizes the Crescent for speaking in commendatory terms of the Milwaukee Free Democrat, an Abolition organ.

We noted that our abolition contemporary published one of the best papers in the State, and used the phrase, "one of the most reliable."

Is the Racine paper so foolish as to suppose that we referred to the politics of the Milwaukee daily? Our Racine friend also suggests that this notice was published to secure the daily in exchange, as much as to say that we do not believe our own statement.

Now the fact is we advertise enough for each of the Milwaukee dailies (except the Wisconsin) during the year to pay for their favors, and we always have and always shall reserve the right to say just what we think about their general management, whether they request it or not. If the Racine Democrat is displeased thereat, it is its privilege to say so.

Handling of Campaign Hecklers Takes Finesse

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — In a previous dispatch it was observed that the seasoned politician finds it easy to dispose of the occasional heckler or critic in a typical political campaign audience.

But there are differences of style, some of which have been exemplified by the men who have stumped the highways and by-ways of this state in contemporary times.

At an organized meeting the candidate or political leader tends to appear before supporters, or at the least persons who incline to be sympathetic as they showed when they left their homes to hear what he had to offer. In such circumstances the campaigner can usually brush off the heckler with reasonable impunity. Generally he is a political opponent, as his first words make clear, and generally also he cannot resist the theatrical opportunity presented by talking to a crowd that came to hear the speaker of the evening.

When the questioner is long-winded he often gives his supposed victim a break. One prominent politician once drew cheers when, after an interminable question from a heckler, he quietly responded:

"The answer to your question is 'no.'"

OTHERS

Phil Nelson of Douglas county, a state senator whose name has become legend among capitol habitués who have a respect for political stylings, was once confronted at a crowded legislative hearing with a critic who demonstrated that Nelson had an utterly contradictory position on the high-been asking, and with its relationship to specific goals it gives promise of true long-range economy. Partisan differences ought not to becloud its significance.

In short, the selective program is the most promising new idea in economic development assistance in many months. It recognizes the plain fact that there are vast differences in the circumstances of underdeveloped countries, and it seeks to concentrate the major part of the help in areas where the most immediate results are likely. It deserves a sympathetic and generous response.

ly controversial question before the committee.

But Nelson was undisturbed.

"That's a very good question, and I'm glad you asked it," he smiled to the confident opponent. "I'm going to answer it, but it reminds me of the story of the time ... " and he went off into such a hilarious narrative of his World War I experiences that the audience quite forgot the question in its captivation with his story-telling art.

Hand to hand campaigning, a la Proxmire, for example, also has its hazards in the form of hecklers and political opponents. One element of the style is to shake hands quickly and move on, without giving the shakee much chance to start to talk. If it can't be managed, the stumper can say "Write to me at the office about that, so that I can be sure to send you all the information."

Sen. John Kennedy ran into a rare heckler in a Wisconsin town not long ago, a woman who wanted to know how Kennedy stood on the United States subsidizing the rebuilding of the Spanish navy. Kennedy said he didn't think anything of the sort was going on. But the woman persisted. She knew, she said, Kennedy turned her over to a watchful staff assistant, who ostentatiously listened, promised to look into it, and went away.

The late Sen. McCarthy, as nimble as any politician Wisconsin has produced, once demonstrated his own aptitude. It was during a panel discussion, before a huge audience, with the program being broadcast, that he was asked by a studious lady in the back of the hall about a bill then before the Congress.

McCarthy had only the vaguest notion about the bill. But with calm confidence he offered his considered opinion that while its purposes were laudable, the draftsmanship was so atrocious that he couldn't support it in its present shape.

Gov. Nelson addressed a club meeting recently which included a Republican state senator who likes to make speeches, and who misses no opportunity. He asked the chairman for leave to ask the governor a question, and launched into an oration that took five minutes.

Nelson handled it with an expert grasp of the psychology of audiences.

"That's a question?" he asked, as the crowd roared.

Embalmer Doesn't Have Cause to Rush

Milwaukee — (U) — Carl Suchow pleaded innocent to a charge of speeding.

"Why aren't you guilty?" asked the judge. "This officer caught you."

"Your honor," said Suchow, "I was on a death call."

"Are you a doctor?" asked the judge.

"No, I'm an embalmer."

"No need for you to hurry," said the judge, and fined him $25.

Hidden Mailboxes Trouble Mailmen

St. Louis — (U) — Postmaster Claude I. Bakewell complains that hidden mailboxes are troubling his mail men.

He says some new apartment houses have mailboxes in dark places, under staircases and in other unhandy spots, in violation of postal regulations.

Some have been placed so high, Bakewell said, that it makes mail delivery difficult for short postmen.

Forfeits Bond Of $103.95 in Traffic Court

Charles Gerhartz Arrested for Inattentive Driving

A 25-year-old Appleton motorist forfeited bond of $103.95 in municipal court Tuesday when he failed to appear to answer charges of inattentive driving.

Charles F. Gerhartz, 612 W. Summer street, was arrested Aug. 7, 1959, by Appleton police. His car struck the rear of another vehicle which was stopped for an automatic signal on Richmond street at Packard street. Gerhartz said at the time of his arrest that he fell asleep.

Roger T. Gruska, 18, 1435 E. Gunn street, paid fines totaling $95 on two counts of speeding and one driving a car with an illegal muffler. He was clocked by state police at 87 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone and 61 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone. He will lose nine points.

Russell L. Doughty, 34, route 2, Ogdensburg, paid $33.95 for speeding 56 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. The offense will cost him six points.

Bernard J. Fritsch, 21, route 1, West DePere, paid $50 for speeding 60 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. He will lose six points.

Three point speeders were

Thomas A. Jochman, 18, of 723 E. Circle street, $15; Elton Griesbach, 27, route 2, Hortonville, $10; Carroll H. Hutchison, route 2, Menasha, $10; Louis J. Jankowski, 25, Kenosha, $18.95; Arthur R. Kassner, 33, Waukesha, $10; George F. Lehrer, 23, route 2, Black Creek, $15; Kenneth W. Maki, 21, Ishpeming, Mich., $10; Willard C. Rohloff, 34, route 1, Fremont, $10; Thomas E. Weber, 28, Canistota, S.D., $10; Hubert G. Hodorff, 26, Fond du Lac, $13.95 forfeited.

Losing four points for illegal passing: Allie W. Boyd, 44, White Lake, $28.95; Thomas L. Figel, 34, Mayville, $28.95; Mrs. Rose L. Hannemann, 212 N. Meade street, $15; William J. Schauer, 59, Oshkosh, $25; Harold W. Wittig, 39, Fond du Lac, $28.95.

Losing three points for failure to stop at stop signs or automatic signals were Roy M. Knapp, 48, route 1, Hilbert, $25; Gene H. Morris, 21, Appleton YMCA, $10, plus $10 for driving during darkness on a temporary permit.

A case involving speeding against Wayne L. Allen, 24, route 1, Fence, was adjourned one week.

Charles F. Yayek, 62, route 1, Laona, paid $23.95 and lost three points for failure to yield the right-of-way.

James A. Kronschnabel, 19, route 5, Oshkosh, paid $10 for having an illegal muffler.

Charges of failing to transfer title and non-registration against Frank Sikora, 44, Appleton, were dismissed.

Two charges of non-registration against Edgar Strasser, 47, Bryant, were dismissed.

It's Unlikely, However

Spanbauer Could Serve Only Four Years of 80

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — David F. Spanbauer, the 19-year-old Oshkosh youth whose crimes ranged from theft to armed robbery to shooting to rape, Appletton and burglary at Neenah; and one to 10 and one to five concurrent with each other but consecutive to the other sentences for a burglary and a theft at Appletton.

Applying state law to these sentences, Powers explained that Spanbauer would have to serve the minimum in each case, or half the maximum, or two years, whichever is least. One year is the least in each consecutive sentence, so the Oshkosh youth would be eligible to apply for parole after four years.

Spanbauer also is under observation at Waupun to determine whether he is a sex deviate before a decision is made on his convictions for rape of a 16-year old girl at the Cardinal home and attempted rape of a 12 year old Appletton girl.

More Sentences Possible If he is found not to be a sex deviate, he would be returned to municipal court and could draw one to 30 and one to 15 year sentences consecutively on the rape and attempted rape counts.

If this happens, he could apply for parole in six years.

If found to be a sex deviate, he could be released after serving his minimum sentences if he were pronounced cured of his sex deviations.

Powers explained that to apply for parole Spanbauer would have to make requests to the sentencing judge and to the district attorney in office at the time he was sentenced.

Both Judge Gleason and Dist. Atty. Alexander Grant have indicated they are against any parole of Spanbauer.

Bert Dutcher Dies Monday

Marquette university, he spent a year as a circulation representative in Appleton for the Chicago Record-Herald.

Dutcher joined the Fox River Valley Knitting company as a salesman in 1901, a year after it was founded. He took over management of the firm in 1923. He sold his interest in the company in 1954.

He became affiliated with the Jersid Knitting company in 1903, and was associated with that firm until his death.

Dutcher was a Fourth degree Knight of Columbus and a member of the United Commercial Travelers. He was a member of the Appleton Elks club for 57 years.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic church, Appleton, with burial in St. Mary cemetery. Friends may call after 3 p.m. Friday at the Wichmann Funeral home, where the rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Survivors include his widow, Bernice; one daughter, Mrs. Alex J. Manier, Appleton; two sons, Sidney O. and John W., both of Appleton; two brothers, Gene, Hot Springs, Ark., and William E., Appleton; two sisters, Mrs. Victor Hobart, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Kenneth Bonnell, Portland, Ore., and 11 grandchildren.

Agreement Talks

Street Workers May Get 40-Hour Week

City street and sanitation dues checkoff system, arbitration, working day, seniority rights on job openings and wage rates.

The committee indicated the finance committee will have to rule on a wage increase — the union has asked for a straight 15-cent hourly boost.

The cut in hours amounts to a 10 per cent hourly wage boost, because the committee indicated the 4-hour cut would not be accompanied by a weekly pay cut.

The bi-weekly pay schedule would be effective May 1, because of mechanical difficulties in the change-over from the present twice - monthly schedule. Also, the committee indicated, the change in pay periods may have to be extended to other departments to keep the pay procedure the same for all city employees.

Union Charges The Teamster's business agent, Robert Schlieve, claimed the committee reneged on commitments made for a checkoff dues collection at the Feb. 29 bargaining session.

Schlieve also charged the committee made decisions without considering the other party, which was not negotiation, and with making an obvious attempt to bypass the union. The committee had removed notification of the union on warnings to and firings of employees.

The committee, led by one member, threw out the union's arbitration proposal which specified a committee of two city members, two union members and submission of the disagreement to the Wisconsin Employment Relations board if no settlement could be reached.

'Relinquishing Authority' "It's relinquishing our authority to a third party with no business in the dispute," cried the committee member.

"You've emasculated any grievance procedure by throwing out arbitration," replied the union.

Schlieve chided the committee for the lack of progress on the wage and agreement talks, pointing out that the street, sanitation and park workers had been "kicked around too long" and that his requests for wage boosts are retroactive to Jan. 1.

The committee and union will sit down to iron out remaining disagreements Monday afternoon.

Today's Deaths

Mrs. George Dietz

Mrs. George Dietz, 63, of 1301 S. East street, died at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in Neenah after a 5-day illness. She was born June 7, 1896, in Appleton, and had lived on a farm in the town of Ellington until nine years ago when she moved to Appleton.

Seek Warrants In Attack Case

Insufficient Evidence For Rape Charge, Greisch Says

District Attorney George Greisch will ask warrants either this afternoon or Thursday charging a Kaukauna man and his Appleton nephew in an attack on a Green Bay girl.

Joseph Smith, 22, of 116 Garfield street, Kaukauna, and Jerry Smith, 22, of 614 W. College avenue, are being held in the Outagamie county jail pending outcome of the investigation.

Greisch and Sheriff's Lt. Jack Frenz said their probe of an attack early Monday morning of the 19-year-old girl indicates insufficient evidence for rape charges.

The girl was questioned Tuesday by Greisch, Sheriff Robert Heinritz and Brown county Sheriff Arley Skenandore.

An examination by two Green Bay physicians proved inclusive, the district attorney said.

The men have admitted meeting the girl in a Green Bay beer bar, visiting at least one other bar, and driving to a spot on a town road 2 1/2 miles north of Oneida and one-half mile inside the Outagamie county line.

The girl was beaten in a struggle, according to Frenz, and forced nearly nude from the car into sub-freezing weather. The men threw her clothes out with her, Frenz said.

Former Head of DePere School System Dies, 70

DePere — Thomas J. McGlynn, 70, former superintendent of DePere public schools, died Tuesday in Green Bay after a long illness.

McGlynn retired from the school position in 1955 and had been in failing health for the last three years. His career spanned more than 40 years, 29 of them as head of the District No. 1 school system in DePere.

Prominent in state educational circles, McGlynn served on the state forensic board and was president of the Wisconsin School Superintendent's association for two terms.

Survivors include the widow; one son James, Park Ridge, Ill.; a brother William, Winter Park, Fla., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Francis church, with burial in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

12 Known Dead, 68 Hurt in Train Wreck knocked askew by some giant hand.

Flame from the initial explosion swept back the length of the train, but only forward cars in the tangled ground-up jumble caught fire. The first three of the four diesel units were charred to blackened rubble—reduced, one newsman suggested, to hardly more than half their original size. The last two cars remained on the tracks.

Track Torn Up

Eleven hundred feet of track were torn up, some twisted into grotesque loops around the shattered cars.

Fifteen ambulances came from four nearby towns. Helicopters helped shuttle the injured to three Bakersfield hospitals.

An ambulance driver, Don Williams, said: "Surprisingly enough there was not too much crying or moaning. Everybody seemed to have pretty good control."

Engineer L. A. Snyder and Fireman A. H. Braley, both of Fresno, Calif., were cremated in their cab.

Eyewitness John Holland said the oil rig driver, John Garrett, left his imperiled vehicle on the tracks, jumped and ran. When the train hit and fire exploded, flames spewed over the running Garrett, who dashed into an irrigation ditch. He was burned to a crisp.

Hours after the crash debris was still burning. Several possible dead were still sealed in the wreckage.

Floodlights and generators were brought in so rescue and repair work could go on through the night.

Quake in 1952

It was Bakersfield's worst disaster since the Kern county earthquake July 21, 1952, that killed 12, injured 35 and caused millions of dollars damage.

The scene was cold and windy. Smoke was so dense before dark fell that cars two miles away needed lights to drive.

Priests were on the scene, giving last rites.

Most of the dead and severely injured were in the first three cars. No. 1 was on its side. Nos. 2 and 3 leaning on it. Two cars were welded together by the tremendous heat.

The scene was one of twisted metal, smoke, ankle-deep oil, cars compressed like accordion. On topsy-turvy roofs of cars physicians with stethoscopes in hand waited for torch operators to burn access holes.

Mrs. Delma Casey, 23, Waco, Texas, an air force sergeant's wife, had boarded the train at Richmond with her daughters Jackie, 3, and Karen, 5. They were returning to Texas after visiting her parents in San Leandro.

Tossed Like Rag Dolls

"We were just sitting there eating sandwiches when suddenly we saw fire whipping past our seat," she said. "Then the train started to twist and jerk and the seats flew through the air. Most of us were thrown around like rag dolls."

She and her children had cuts, bruises and bumps but were otherwise unhurt, doctors said.

Fred Blakely, an oil company worker who owns an 11-acre farm at the intersection where the crash occurred, said: "It was unbelievable that the people inside the train didn't panic."

"I was working in my barn when I heard two loud explosions like sonic booms. I rushed outside and saw clouds of black smoke boiling up. Then a wall of flames shot up, about 35 feet high; they raced about 350 yards down the track."

"I ran about 300 yards to the passenger car nearest me. Children inside were crying. The passengers broke a window and carried children out to me."

"They were very calm about it. The children were cut, bruised, some were crying. I carried them to the edge of my field and my wife called for help."

Edgar Pollard of Chicago, a lounge-car attendant, was upstairs in the transparent-domed car.

"I felt a couple of short jolts," he said. "I think the engineer tried to apply the brakes. Then there was the crash and flames along each side of the car."

Edward Mitchell, another attendant, who was in the car's lower level, said:

"I was thrown to the floor. I knew it was bad. There was a nurse in our car and she was a real Florence Nightingale. She helped the injured. Every one was calm."

Mrs. Mae Webb, who was in her home a half mile away, felt a flash of heat but didn't

State Investment Unit Reorganized

Madison — The reorganization of the State Investment commission took formal effect Tuesday as Charles F. Jacobson, Jr., assumed the position of executive director of the agency that manages $550,000,000 in state owned securities.

The reorganization of the agency was provided under a law passed by the last session of the legislature.

Jacobson, former chairman of the 3-member commission that was abolished, was named executive director at an annual salary of $16,500. Fred G. Morton and William J. Nevermann, the other two former commissioners, were named directors.

Jacobson will be responsible to the 7-member State Investment board, which remains unchanged. Gov. Gaylord Nelson is chairman of the board. The commission and leaders of both parties supported the reorganization.

ing the filibusters in that fashion.

The recess broke into the non-stop session after 43 hours and 13 minutes.

After it was over Johnston resumed right where he had left off.

Two hours after he started, Ervin got a respite as a colleague demanded the thirteenth quorum call since the around-the-clock sessions started Monday at noon.

5 Senators Present

Only five senators were present at the time, but from cloakroom coats and Capitol Hill hotels the civil rights advocates assembled the 51 senators needed to answer the roll. The senate's two oldest members, Theodore Francis Green (D-RI) and James E. Murray (D-Mont), were among those responding. Most southerners were conspicuous by their absence.

Ervin was able to sit down during the 19 minutes required to gather the quorum, then arose and continued speaking.

Ervin, a former state supreme court justice, dwelt at length on numerous court decisions. At times he underwent extensive questioning from Sens. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), who regularly supports civil rights legislation, and Albert Gore (D-Tenn.). At one point Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) also questioned Ervin about supreme court cases.

He quit after four hours to be followed after another quorum call by Sen. Olin D. Johnston.

Highway Toll Climbs to 103

Milwaukee — Wisconsin's highway death toll has climbed to 103, compared with 106 on this day a year ago.

William Fennel, 30, Kenosha, was killed Tuesday when the car he was driving and an automobile transport truck collided at an intersection about 14 miles west of Kenosha. The truck driver, Fay Mason of Antioch, Ill., was injured and taken to a hospital.

heaps of rubble in the search for dead and wounded.

Troops cordoned off the city to prevent looting. Demolition teams moved through the European sector, dynamiting shattered buildings to prevent unexpected collapses.

Dazed survivors wandered about in search of missing relatives. Others picked through the ruins of their homes to salvage what possessions they could.

Smashed American and European automobiles with foreign license plates lined the rubble-strewn streets near the wreckage of fashionable hotels. No one knew where their owners were.

Jumbled into the streets were mattresses, shattered chairs, tables and at one point a piano, all hurled from the shattered apartment houses and hotels by the earthquake shocks.

Three-fourths of the European quarter was destroyed. The less substantially built native casbah was virtually demolished. In hillside residential districts, the rubble had cascaded down into piles of torn wreckage.

Casablanca airport, 205 miles to the northeast, was jammed with anxious relatives of persons living in Agadir. Many begged for rides on rescue planes to the stricken city but all room was reserved for rescue workers and supplies.

In a Casablanca waiting room one elderly woman lifted up her hands and wailed, "Why is God punishing us so?"

A massive international rescue effort was in operation. American, French, Spanish and Italian armed forces and Red Cross experts converged on the scene.

A contingent of U.S. Marines and navy construction workers were flown to Agadir last night. U.S. Naval headquarters at Naples sent out orders to all available transport aircraft in the Mediterranean area to proceed to the scene.

The heavy cruiser Newport News was ordered from Sicily to the disaster area to furnish hospital facilities, helicopters, fresh water and other equipment.

U.S. Navy aircraft were called in from Italy, Turkey and England. A task force of 6 to 8 Hercules air freighters was detailed to airlift rescue equipment, food and medicine from central Europe.

The French air force kept 50 planes shuttling survivors out of the stricken city. Fifteen ships of France's Mediterranean fleet also were ordered to the disaster area.

her overboard to drown after beating her in her cabin the night of Sept. 18 as the ship sailed for New York. Miss Kauffman's body was found next day on an island in Boston harbor. After he left the courtroom Van Rie told newsmen: "I think it was suicide." (The defense had hinted that during the 3-week trial.)

The blue-eyed mariner said he was "angry against no one. I was never a bit worried. If you tell the truth, you always win."

The wireless man's progress from the seventh floor courtroom turned into a wild, triumphant journey. Hordes of women employees, plus hangers-on, surrounded him at every step. Despite an elbowing police escort, several women managed to fling their arms about him and hug and kiss him.

Van Rie admitted adultery with the petite Chicago heiress but he said he never beat or hit her—that such a thing never entered his mind.

Jury foreman Charles Carroll said the panel split evenly, 6-6, on the first ballot. He added that 20 ballots in all were taken before a unanimous verdict was reached.

Carroll declined to pinpoint any single factor that led to the verdict.

Pope Blesses Ashes as Lenten Season Begins

Vatican City — Pope John XXIII today had his forehead marked with the Roman Catholic church's Ash Wednesday sign of humility and penance.

Marking the first day of Lent, the pontiff blessed ashes in his private chapel before he said his daily mass.

Msgr. Loris Capoville, the pope's personal secretary, applied some of the ashes to the forehead of the 78-year-old ruler of the church. Then the pope put ashes on the foreheads of Msgr. Capoville and other members of the papal staff.

1,377 Negroes in Louisiana Win Right to Vote

Washington — The supreme court Monday restored voting privileges to 1,377 Negroes whose names were stricken from registration rolls of Washington parish, Louisiana.

The justice department charged the names were removed in a "mass purge" of Negro voters, in violation of the 1957 civil rights act.

In a speeded-up appeal, the department asked that the voters be returned to the rolls so that they may cast ballots in Louisiana's general state election on April 19.

The supreme court's action in restoring the names was unanimous. It was announced in an unsigned two-paragraph order.

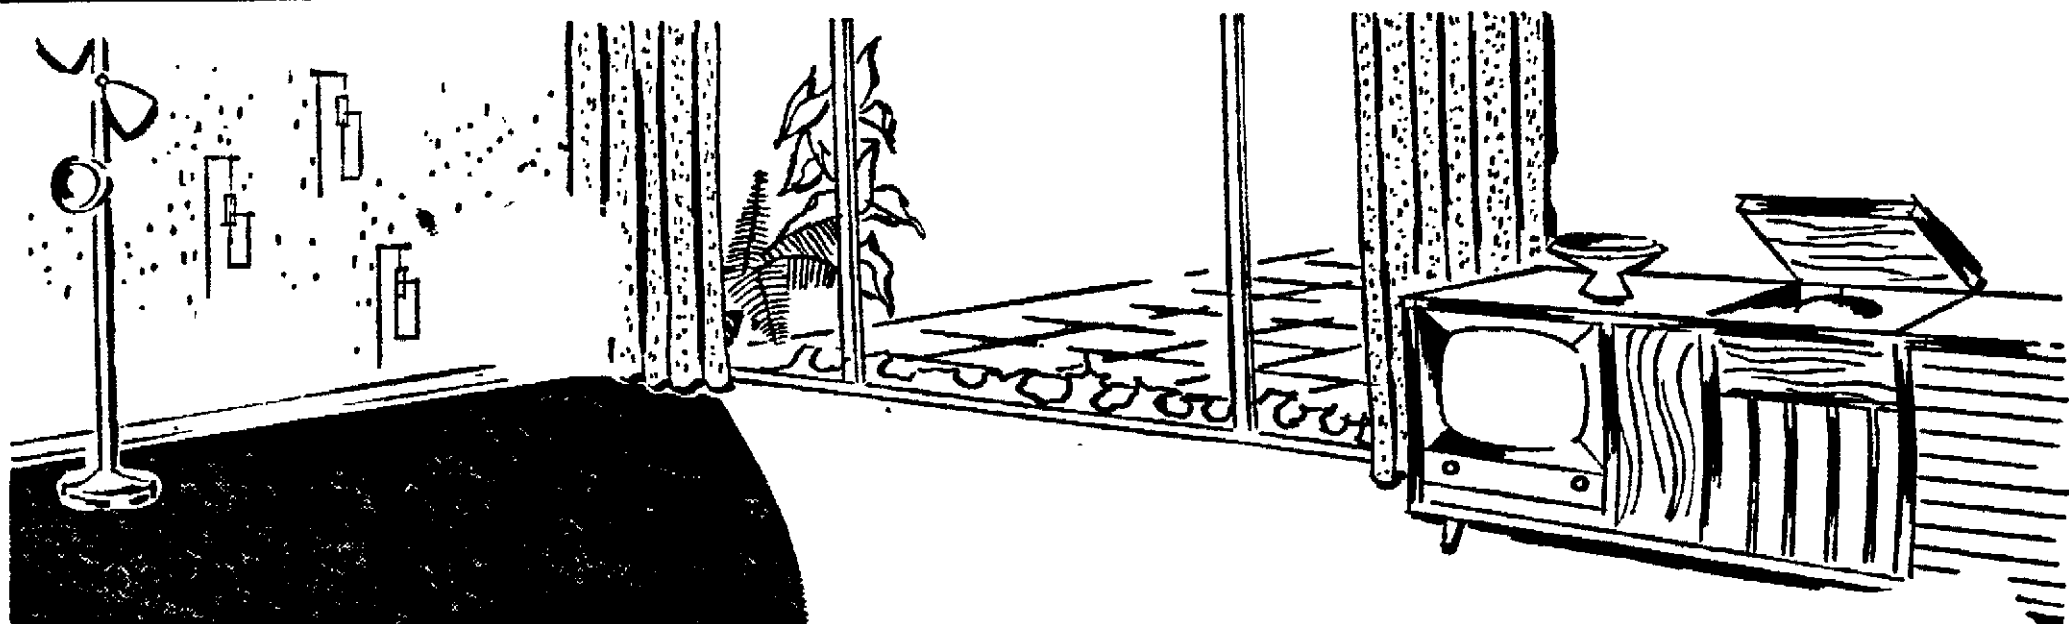

The Negro voters were removed from parish rolls as a result of challenges filed under Louisiana procedure by members of the white citizens council of Washington parish.

The challenges cited a variety of errors made by the Negroes in filling out their applications for registration. The errors were minor technical deficiencies such as misspelling, miscalculations of age, deviations from printed instructions, and assertedly illegible handwriting.

When McCully arrived, David testified, Mrs. Gillham was on the left of the car while Gillham leaned into the other side while McCully told Gillham that Heideman was still breathing. Gillham said he would finish the job admitting he had shot the farmer, David testified.

Gillham had his gun drawn, pointed at McCully, David said. The youth said he ducked and saw Gillham twist out of the car door and heard shots as the squad car left.

Propped Against Door

"Here's the gun—I'm finished," the youth testified his uncle said as he propped him against the door of a corncrib before taking Mrs. Gillham to New London for medical aid.

Defense Atty. Allen Cain is scheduled to cross examine the youth today.

McCully described his part in the shooting during his testimony and denied a charge by Cain that he had pulled his gun and fired at Gillham before Gillham fired.

Dr. John Monstad, deputy county coroner, testified about Gillham's wound and described the X-ray pictures of Heideman's body saying it was impossible to say which of the several bullets had caused death. He said there were three bullets in the farmer's head and seven in his chest.

Motorist Denies Drunken Driving

Richard W. Hurst, 29, of 1213 Orchard street, Kaukauna, pleaded innocent of drunken driving when he was arraigned Tuesday in municipal court.

He was arrested Monday in the town of Buchanan by county police after an accident. He furnished bond of $118.95 for trial April 12.

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Monday's over-the-wall escape by a Wisconsin State reformatory inmate — a case already unique by the fact that the man was apprehended 98 miles away before his absence was known — was followed Tuesday by another revelation: the escapee had a broken foot from the very beginning of his flight.

Meanwhile, the staff investigation of guards' failure to detect the escape was being completed, as plans were laid for taking the escapee into court on new charges.

The brief-term fugitive, James Neuburn, 28, Omaha, Neb., had a fracture of a small bone in his left foot, apparently from a 2-story jump during his escape.

Walked to City

Neuburn related that he left the grounds by using an electric cable from a classroom movie projector in order to scale the 22-foot perimeter wall after he had cut through a window screen to jump from his dormitory quarters.

It was during this drop from the second floor dormitory window that he apparently injured his foot. He said he didn't notice the injury at the time.

Neuburn walked from the reformatory, near the center of Ashwaubenon to Green Bay's west side where he stole the first of two cars.

He drove to Schofield in the stolen Green Bay car, hitchhiked into Wausau and stole the car when the driver went into a bank, then wrecked the trucks with several county policemen when he was being booked in the jail. He was carried to a cell.

Reformatory Supt. M. A. Skaff said that he has conferred with Dist. Atty. Alexander Grant about prosecution of Neuburn for the escape and both auto thefts.

The investigation of the escape was continued Tuesday and today. John Gagnon of the state's division of corrections participated with the reformatory administration. Three reformatory guards remain suspended. Two of the officers were said to have failed to detect Neuburn's absence when they changed shifts in the dormitory at 6 a.m. Monday, while the third officer was tower guard on the north wall when the escape was made.

Sanger Powers, director of the corrections division and a former reformatory superintendent, directed Skaff and Gagnon to mount the institution's wall at 5 a.m. today — the approximate hour of Neuburn's escape — to determine the degree of light and extent of visibility which may have been a factor in the observation of the guard in the wall tower some distance away.

A report of the findings and whether any action will be taken against any of the suspended guards has not been announced.

committee check one of the signs while at right Doug Gunderson, council chairman, checks the program with Lyall Stilp, chamber president.

The Spark to Start the Explosion Theme was applied by Dr. Joseph C. Schabacker, right, University of Wisconsin extension commerce chairman and speaker at the dinner, who applies a match to the oversized firecracker held by John Corr, left, council

UW Commerce Professor Warns Against Complacency in Small Business

Menasha — Attendance of 300 persons at its "Explosion Dinner" got the Retail-Service council off to a rocketing start Tuesday night at the Elks club, marking a success to the new Chamber of Commerce unit's first endeavor.

The diners — store clerks, service tradesmen and their bosses — were warned by Dr. Joseph C. Schabacker, head of the extension commerce department of the University of Wisconsin, not to get complacent because they had a good business year.

"The word 'complacency' sometimes hits us in a way we don't know it is happening to us," he warned. He pointed to the increasing rate of failures in small businesses taking place everywhere.

The small businessman often explains the failure as the result of being short on working capital, the staff is not large enough or not the type to do what the owner did when he started, or that big business or suburban shopping areas are taking the sales, he continued.

Cause or Effect?

Dr. Schabacker suggested they take a look at themselves and ask whether these factors are a cause or an effect. "Each of us ought to look carefully at our managerial functions which are planning, organizing, staffing, directing and control. Have we defined the duties we expect of our force and told them what we want done?"

He listed several ways management can improve business. One is to get specialized help, such as from their banker, chamber of commerce or other local and national organizations. Another is through management education training programs at a local level and your vocational school and the University of Wisconsin extension division can help in this regard.

Tells Background

Doug Gunderson, chairman of the Retail - Service council, served as toastmaster and outlined the objectives of the group. Lyall Stilp, Chamber of Commerce president, pointed to the spread between the potential buying power in the Twin Cities and that actually spent. He pointed to unity and togetherness as a way of getting it back and said that was the reason for the Retail-Service council.

Stilp related the history behind the formation of the council and told of the naming of improvement committees for both Neenah and Menasha. Menasha's committee is headed by Ralph Risley with K. C. Kimball as sub-

Deny Service Station Rule Alterations

Schanke Contends Ordinance 'Loose'; Hear Taxi Dispute

Menasha — Ald. Gordon Schanke Tuesday cast the only vote against keeping the present ordinance on service stations. Its review had been asked Feb. 16.

Schanke contended the ordinance is "too loose. It could allow a gas station on every corner of the city."

Mayor R. G. DuCharme said filling stations may not be built unless land is properly zoned.

The ordinance provides filling stations may not be built less than 300 feet from public buildings nor 70 feet from residences.

The question of review came up because of an oil company's interest in building a filling station at Ahnaip street and Nicolet boulevard, on land presently occupied by the office of the old Walter Brothers Brewing company.

The land is between St. Patrick church on the west and a home on the east. It is less than 300 feet from the church.

Other Action

In other action, the council: Referred to the police, fire, traffic and safety and ordinance and resolution committees the mayor's request to work out a solution to a dispute by two taxicab lines over the cab parking stalls on Chute street near Milwaukee street. The committees will have power to act.

Ordered railroad companies to patch damaged pavement at their street crossings or have the city street crews do the work and bill the railroad. Crossings at Third and Tayco and Sixth and Milwaukee streets were mentioned as the worst. Police Chief Peter Clark also was asked to

Toltersen to Retire As President of ERA

Head of Firm Steps Down July 1; Kansas Man Chosen as Successor

Neenah — The retirement of John S. Toltersen as president of the association effective July 1 when he will become past president as provided in the bylaws and also remain as a member of the finance committee.

Toltersen is a native of Neenah and returned here from Minnesota in 1932 to become actively associated with the Equitable Reserve association in charge of the investment department. He succeeded the late Norton J. Williams as president in 1954 and has been active in local civic and community projects for many years.

Named to Presidency

The trustees have elected to the presidency Woodrow W. Miller of Lawrence, Kan., who has been connected with the Standard Life association in that city for nearly 25 years and president since 1946.

He is a graduate of the University of Kansas and served as a naval officer in World War II. Miller is a director of the First National bank of Lawrence, Kan., a past president of the Kiwanis club in that city as well as a member of boards of a number of civic organizations, including the community hospital, Red Cross and Boy Scouts.

With Mrs. Miller and his son of high school age he expects to move to Neenah toward the end of June. His daughter is being married this spring and, following graduation from the University of Kansas in June will be living with her husband elsewhere.

Town, Twin City Officials to Meet on Sewage Request

Rural Area Faces State Order To Solve Its Disposal Problems

Menasha — Town of Menasha officials will be invited to meet with the Neenah and Menasha common councils and the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage commission to discuss the rural area's hookup into the disposal plant facilities.

The action to invite the town was passed unanimously Tuesday by the Menasha council on motion of Ald. George Stilp, who termed the move "in the interest of good public relations."

The town is faced by an order from the state board of health to solve its sewage disposal problems. In some areas, raw sewage is running through ditches and some wells have been contaminated by sewage from septic tanks which do not operate properly in the town area's rocky soil.

The two councils and mayors are to meet with the sewerage commission at a date to be arranged today to discuss a secondary sewage treatment plant ordered by the state committee on water pollution. Deadline for the plant is Dec. 31, 1961. No estimate of the secondary plant is available, since no study has been made.

Want Annexation

At a Feb. 17 meeting in the town of Menasha, Mayors R. G. DuCharme of Menasha and Clarence Mitchell of Appleton told town officials no sewage hookup would be made into town areas without complete annexation. Town Chairman Amos Page has asked the city to allow negotiating with the sewerage commission for hookup.

The town's only alternative is to build its own sewage disposal plant and lay sewers. Cost is estimated at about one million dollars.

Page's letter to the city asked formal action on allowing or denying the hookup by contract and on what terms.

Smoke Damage

Menasha — Smoke damage was reported at the Joseph Zorowski home, 828 Appleton road, where Menasha firemen were summoned at 6:17 a.m. today because of an overheated oil-fired furnace.

Council Confusion on Land Sale Causes Tie

Mayer R. G. Du Charme Casts Deciding Vote on School Site Action Minutes

Menasha — Confusion on a committee meeting during a meeting by someone who is not a member? He was objecting to his summons to the committee meeting by the secretary employed by William R. Giese, city attorney. Giese countered that he asked his secretary to alert committee members on the request. Gammey said he wanted "official notice."

At Tuesday's meeting three roll call votes were taken to approve minutes of the Feb. 16 council session and the committee meeting immediately beforehand.

The last council meeting minutes were approved 6-4, with Louis Gammey, John Klein, Paul Laemmrich and Edward Stinski against. Gammey noted that his name was signed as approving the Feb. 16 committee action and contended he did not sign the committee's minutes because he did not approve its action.

'Called Quickly'
The next vote was to approve the committee minutes with the exception of the two paragraphs dealing with sale of the school site and the city's purchase of the bank and bank purchase sections. Gammey moved the question and said his basis of objection was that "the meeting was called quickly, one-half hour before the council meeting. What kind of a state of affairs is this when some-

Approve 2 Police Car Radios, Two Set Conversions

Menasha — Purchase of two new police car transistors and transferring the present police car sets to fire department trucks, at an estimated $2,527 cost, was approved unanimously by the common council Tuesday.

The new sets will be needed because by Aug. 1 the radio frequencies will be converted in this area and the radios in the fire trucks will be unusable.

The present police car radios will be removed in a few weeks when new squad cars are purchased, and the transistors will be installed.

Money for the conversion will come from both police and fire department outlay wanted all councilmen to be involved in the changeover.

Workers' Kits Were Given to American Red Cross volunteers Monday at the fund drive kickoff meeting of the Menasha chapter. Solicitation of homes in the city and town of Menasha, to meet the $10,117 quota, has begun. Mrs. Gerhardt Frank, center, women's division chairman, examined a solicitor's kit. With her, from left, were Mrs. Ralph Fritsch, Fourth ward chairman; William Walton, Oshkosh, kickoff speaker and onetime national vice president for Wisconsin; and Elton Beattie, fund drive chairman.

planning work of the council which has four or five new promotion ideas never tried here before and asked for more ideas from the merchants. Cy Van Vreede outlined educational classes for merchants and clerks and service trades personnel that are available locally. John Corr, who is heading the finance section, brought out the costs of a successful program.

Special music was a solo by Betty Ellis, accompanied by Betsy Johnson, and a trio composed of Sue Ann Holm, Bonnie Berro and Ann Stahl, accompanied by Judy Lindquist.

Participating from Winnebago county are Van Jack, Max Carpenter, and Ward. The committee has not of the county board. George Framberger, soil conservationist, and County Agent Vernon Peroutky. Oscar Lap-er, Rock Springs, is state president and Lawrence Johnson, Algoma, secretary-treasurer.

The seventh graders Tuesday night began a series on the book "I Dare You" by William Danforth, an industrialist who tells of the 4-fold way of life.

Because of Ash Wednesday the eighth grade group will not meet this evening.

Ninth graders Thursday night will hear a talk on law enforcement by a representative of the state conservation department. The 10th graders that evening will continue their driver training with a movie on "Safe Driving" and a discussion afterwards.

Venue Change Okayed On Stabbing Charge

Oshkosh — A change of venue from municipal court to circuit court has been ordered by Acting Municipal Judge Herbert J. Mueller in the case against William Breitenfeldt, 34, 1107 E. Marquette street, Appleton, for the alleged stabbing of Pete Heimerman, 38, 349 Cleveland street, Appleton.

Breitenfeldt's attorney Tuesday filed a motion asking the change and Breitenfeldt has been ordered to appear in 4:34 p.m. Feb. 21, circuit court at 10 a.m. on Raymond J. Elmer, 22, March 28. The stabbing was alleged to have happened at $14.20 for speeding 43 miles a town of Menasha supper an hour on S. Commercial street Tuesday.

It will be open at the Red Owl store on Appleton road from 5:30 to 8 p.m. March 16 and from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4 p.m. March 17 at First Congregational church.

Approved payment of $4,972 to Henry Verbruggen and Son Little Chute, for curb, gutter, sidewalk and storm sewer work in 1959. Deductions were made for unacceptable sidewalk and $500 was withheld until final inspection is made this spring.

Unanimously commended the police department for receiving the 1959 Walker Safety award from the National Police Officers' association, based on traffic safety last year.

Pays $20 Fine for Inattentive Driving

Menasha — Thomas Goodrich, 35, 2119 S. Gladys street, Appleton, pleaded guilty this morning to inattentive driving causing a traffic accident. Police Justice Arthur J. Ales fined him $20 and costs.

Goodrich was charged as a result of a 3-car accident at Washington street and Garfield avenue the night of Feb. 25. Three persons received minor injuries in the crash.

Charged with speeding at 36 m.p.h. on De Pere street Monday night, Alex Waldo-ck, 71, 636 State street, forfeited $10 and costs in Ales' court.

The awards will go to students in grades 8 to 12. Students competing for the scholarship awards are to submit exhibits of not less than six and not more than 12 original and varied items. They may include paintings, drawings, sketches, sculpture prints, or craft work. Entry blanks and further information may be obtained from extension offices of Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Dodge, Sheboygan, Ozaukee, Washington, Manitowoc and Calumet counties and at the Fond du Lac post office. Miss Mary Fitzgerald, Fond du Lac, is general chairman of the show.

Theater Group Elects Officers, Assistants

Winneconne — The recently reactivated Village Players elected Clarence Mueller president; Mrs. Leonard LaBelle, secretary; and Miss Mildred Severson, treasurer, at a meeting Tuesday at the Hiawatha room. Mrs. Ralph Zimmerman was elected director of plays, to be assisted by Mrs. Orville Hinz. Mrs. John Eid will assist in the selection of plays. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. April 12 in the Hiawatha room.

Worthy Matron Mrs. Verna Clark and Worthy Patron Carl Kolodzik presided at the meeting of the Winneconne chapter of the Eastern Star held Tuesday evening at Masonic hall.

Invitations to the school of instruction at chapters in Menasha, Neenah and Omro were read. The Winneconne chapter will hold its school of instruction at 8 p.m. March 30, with the worthy grand matron Mrs. Barbara Chapman, South Wayne, making an official inspection. Mrs. Edgar Bartelt is in charge of the dinner at the Hiawatha room which will precede the meeting. Members of the committee in charge were Mrs. George Schneider, Mrs. Kenneth Sayer and Harry Peterson.

Tells State Role In Protection Of Investors

Securities Head Outlines Work to Neenah Club

Neenah — Wisconsin has been a leader in the field of protecting investors. Edward J. Samp, director of the state department of securities for the last 16 years, told the Neenah club Monday noon.

He pointed out his department goes back to 1919 when it was created to regulate the traffic in securities while the federal SEC law dates back to 1933. The securities law tries to "protect the little fellow and his capital because if he is bilked, he is a disgruntled citizen."

Wisconsin's laws rates with the best in the nation and go beyond the federal laws which call for full disclosure with prospectus of new companies issuing stock Wisconsin's regulatory law requires you cannot register unless "there is a reasonable chance to succeed."

Investigates Firm

Samp said his office investigates the people, future possibilities, how much money the promoters have in the venture, the soundness of the financial structure and the proportion of classes of stock to be issued. He said there are some speculative approvals since there are new methods and new products.

He warned the Neenah club members to be cautious about buying some Canadian securities "because they form companies up there faster than we can keep up with them." He estimated a million dollars a week goes into Canadian securities.

Cane to Discuss Boating Law at Tri-City Meeting

Neenah — Assemblyman Arnold Cane will discuss the new boating law at the meeting of the Tri-City Boating club tonight at the Whiting boathouse.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. but Cane's talk will be at 8:30 to enable members to attend church services. The lawmaker will discuss the history of the boat law passed by the 1959 legislature and give suggestions on ways to have an amendment passed.

Members of the Menasha and Neenah Dock associations, Appleton Power Squadron, Appleton Yacht club and Neenah Nodaway Yacht club have been invited to attend.

Also to be discussed will be the Wisconsin Boating association get-together at Oshkosh on July 23-24. More than 300 boats are expected for the rendezvous and the Tri-City club has been invited to participate.

A question and answer period and social hour will follow the program.

4 Menashans Hurt In City Mishaps

Menasha — Felix Rappert, 59, 908 Third street, is under treatment at Theda Clark Memorial hospital for a right leg fracture he suffered Monday afternoon when he fell as he was boarding his car. His condition is good.

Mrs. A. G. Bayer, 61, 340 Second street, is under observation for a possible fractured hip. Brought in by ambulance, she is listed in good condition.

Mrs. Ed Lorge, 49, 701 Jefferson street, received outpatient treatment for crushing injuries to her left hand, caused when the hand became caught in a washer wringer.

Mrs. Charles Meizer, 50, route 2, Menasha, is in good condition at the hospital, where she is being treated for a head cut received Saturday night in a fall at the Elks club.

80 Pct. of Taxes In Neenah Paid

Neenah — About 80 per cent of the taxes have been collected by City Treasurer Walter H. Loehning, according to Mayor Bell. Monday was the last day for payment of taxes by those paying their taxes in full.

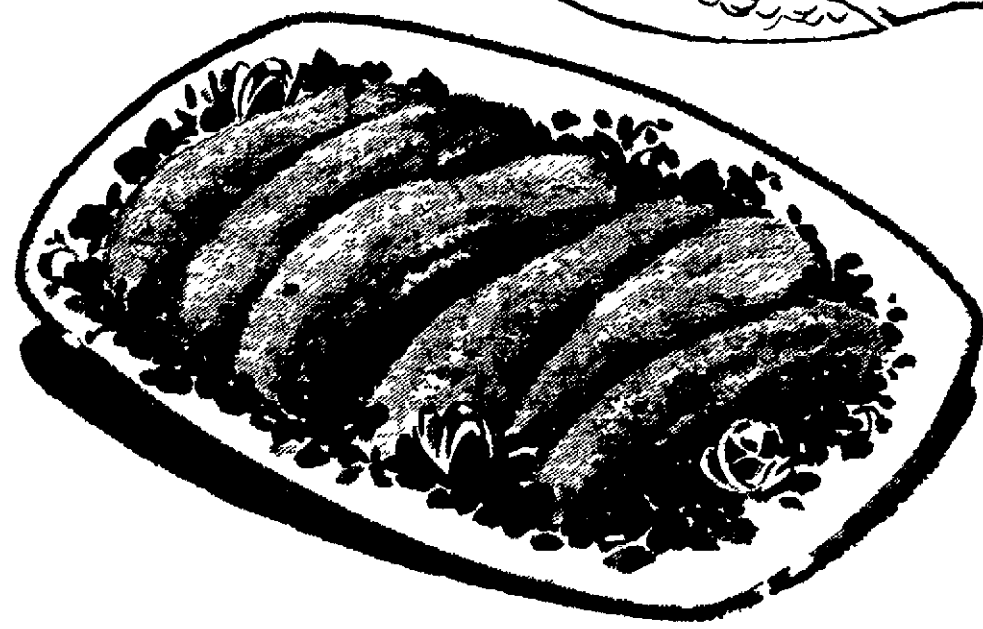

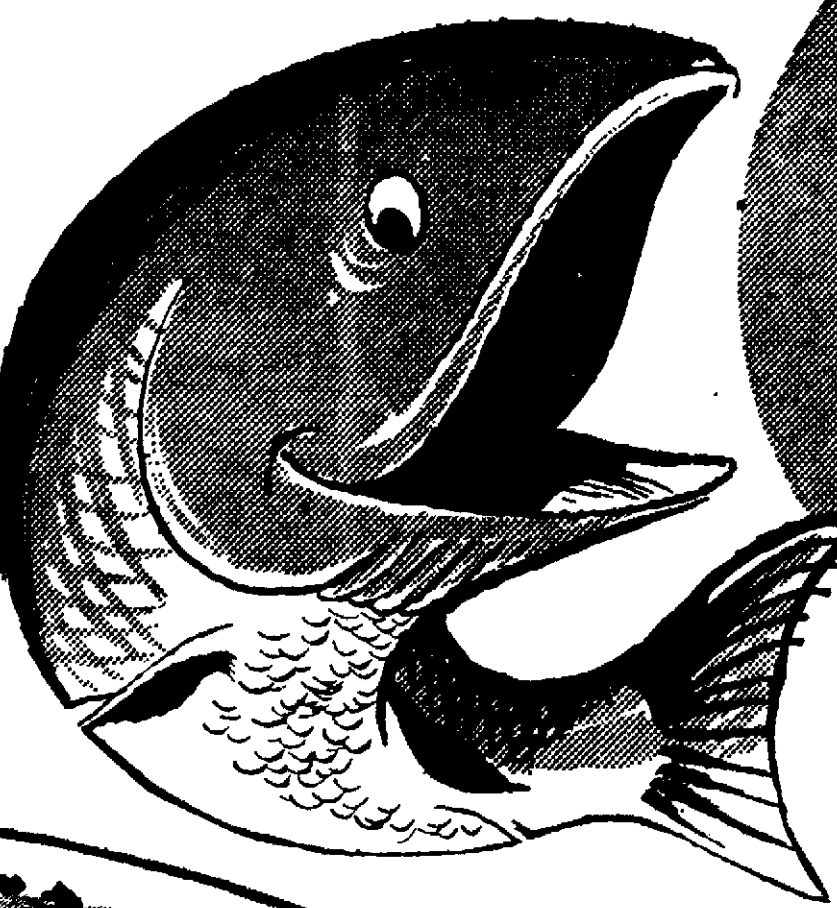

Installment plan payments are being made by 1,192 taxpayers and a total of $330,000 was collected in that fashion. The other installments are due by March 31, May 31 and July 31.

Monday's tax payments came to $100,004, the mayor listed. The largest collection for a single day was on Washington's birthday, a day on which the city office previously had been closed. On that day tax collections were about $254,000.

Industries at Oshkosh Host To 65 Farmers

Tour of Truck Plant Followed by Dairy Barn Visits

Oshkosh — Approximately 65 farmers, mostly from the Oshkosh trade area, visited the Oshkosh Motor Truck plant Tuesday. The farm-city tour day was cooperatively sponsored by the Associated Industries of Oshkosh, Inc., and the county extension office.

The tour began with a visit to the Oshkosh Motor Truck, Inc., the assembly point of 4-wheel drive trucks. At noon the group visited the Winnebago county airport. History of the airport, its recent building program and expansion projects were discussed by Chairman Joseph Drexler of the county board of supervisors and by Steve Wittman, airport manager.

Al Jaeger, manager of the North Central Airlines, discussed the expansion of transportation at this airport as exceeding the growth of practically all airports in his acquaintance. After a noon luncheon at the Airport grill, visitors heard the developments in industries of Oshkosh and appreciation was expressed for the relations with the agricultural industry.

Tour of Farms
A caravan of automobiles headed by the county traffic patrol visited the farms of Gordon Raddatz, Nekimi township, and Warren Moon and Phil Moon farms, town of Algoma. Particular emphasis was placed on their remodeled barns, stanchion and tie-type stalls, automatic bunk feeders and silo unloaders, ventilating and lighting systems.

James Crowley, agricultural extension dairyman from the University of Wisconsin, emphasized farms such as those visited, farms operated in a most practical and economical way in his opinion, would remain staunch factors in the community for many decades to come.

He evaluated the tour as an educational tool whereby farmers could see what is being done in industry, coupled with hearing and seeing what practical farmers are doing to further develop their dairy program.

Dance Group To Present Plays at MHS

Menasha — The Children's theater committee of Menasha elementary schools has arranged a program, "The Magic Story Book," presented by Children's Dance theater of Washington, D.C., whose director is Miss Erika Thimney.

The program will be presented March 17 in Menasha High school auditorium.

Serving on the Menasha committee are Mrs. Mary V. Crockett, chairman, Miss Laura Martin, Miss Dorothy Sorensen and Dale Loomans.

The committee has promoted plays for children in the last 10 years in the interest of better live drama. Besides the annual live drama program, the committee arranges one on science or travel.

The March 17 program will feature "Pixie and the Book," "Folk Suite," "The Shoemaker and the Elves" and three Aesop fables — "The Donkey Fable," "The Frog and the Ox" and "The Fox and Sour Grapes."

Employment Office To Give Census Tests

Neenah — Tests for census enumerator applicants will be given at the state employment service office at 514 N. Commercial street at 2 p.m. today, Thursday and Friday, A. P. Engbreton, employment office manager, announced.

The tests originally had been planned for the St. Thomas Episcopal church parish hall but that hall was available only on Monday and Tuesday. Persons seeking to qualify as enumerators may make their application when they take the test.

Great Northern Tragedy

Dramatic Disaster of Railway Told On 50th Anniversary of Its Passing

BY PAUL WELLS

Seattle — In the torn, muddy handbag turned up by frantic rescue workers as they dug in debris of the avalanche was a water-stained note.

"I trust in God to save us," the shaky handwriting read.

But Mrs. Sarah Jane Covington, 60, never reached Seattle for her golden wedding anniversary celebration only a few days away.

She was one of 96 who died a half century ago, on March 1, 1910, in the nation's worst rail avalanche disaster near and repeated insistently no safer place could be found.

Never had there been a slide from the slope above the sidings, he said. And the cold, dank tunnel was impractical because smoke from the engines, kept going to warm the coaches, would suffocate those aboard.

By the final day, moving the trains was impossible because the four rotary snowplows were either out of commission or trapped between slides.

Passengers Prayed
A committee headed by Edgard Lemman, 47, a Hunters, Wash., lawyer, demanded a showdown with railway officials. With telegraph lines down, O'Neill had gone to Hot Springs to message for assistance. Trainmaster Arthur Reed Blackburn saw the committee.

After an angry exchange, Blackburn said nothing could be done. But he would not put his refusal in writing.

Peril at Night

The passengers gathered to pray in one of the coaches, led by the Rev. James H. Thomson, 57, of Bellingham, Wash. That night there were stunts, recitations and group singing to allay mounting terror. Two women and six men laid plans to walk out the next morning.

The peril became acute the night of Feb. 28 as the 43 passengers and 73 railway workers slept fitfully on the two trains and three other workmen rested in small cabins nearby.

Snow turned to rain. Thunder shook the canyon walls, loosening new slides.

Shortly after 1 a. m. March 1 lightning hit the sky. A horrified workman saw the giant snow cap give way above the trains and roll down.

By midmorning 8 passengers and 16 railway men were found alive. Then only bodies. A fireman died later of exposure, leaving only 23 survivors. The dead included 35 passengers and 61 laborers and trainmen.

Blackburn, the trainmaster, was among the casualties.

And so were the Rev. Mr. Thomson. . . Mrs. Covington. . . Nellie Sharp McGirl, who had drawn straws with a fellow writer for McClure's Magazine to see which headed to Seattle on an assignment. . . Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Beck and their three children en route back to Pleasanton, Calif., to escape the rigors of winter at Marcus, Wash. . . and many more.

Act of God
The Great Northern described the 3-week tieup of its line as "the most calamitous and greatest blockage of a railway system in all American railroad history."

In 1914 the Washington state supreme court reversed a lower court award of $20,000 to the small son of one of the victims and held the railway blameless. The avalanche was ruled an act of God.

The Great Northern later spent $25 million to relocate 40 miles of track and build an 8-mile tunnel—longest in the western hemisphere—through the Cascades at a lower elevation. The new route was opened in 1920. Overhead, Wellington — renamed to help blot out memory of the tragedy — fell into the decay. Only 3,900 feet of concrete snowsheds erected after 1910 remain as a monument to the tragedy — fell into the decay.

Dog Club to Discuss Show Ring Training At Thursday Session

Neenah — A show ring training class for owners who wish to enter their dogs in shows will be discussed at the 8 p.m. Thursday meeting of the Winnegamie Dog club at the Whiting boathouse.

The first class will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Appleton VFW club with Mrs. E. F. Winters, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Joseph Dashner, Appleton, in charge.

Thursday's program will consist of an obedience training demonstration by Mrs. Alexander Irvine, Oshkosh, Peter Melchor, Appleton, and Susan Stulp, who had entries in the dog show at Milwaukee in January.

Chilton Faces New Holstein In Tourney

EWC Champion Kiel to Meet Fond du Lac High

Chilton — The Fond du Lac High school Cardinals for the second consecutive year will meet the Eastern Wisconsin conference champions in sub-regional play at Kiel.

Fond du Lac clashes with host Kiel's EW title holders in Thursday's nightcap. Last year the Cardinals defeated the champion Chilton High Tigers in the first round.

Fond du Lac, playing against big schools in the tough Fox Valley conference, ended the season with an 8-6 record. During the year Fondy surprised a few of the best in its league.

15-1 Record
Kiel, posted a 15-1 record with its only setback coming early in the season at the hands of Plymouth.

The host Raiders are spearheaded by guard Dave Bunge, who led the league in scoring by a comfortable margin.

During the season's final games, a 30-point performance by the sharpshooter would have been considered only mediocre.

Kiel lacks the big man but has good overall height and scoring ability.

In the opener Thursday, Chilton will battle New Holstein. The veteran Chilton Tigers finished conference play with a 6-10 record and tied for sixth and seventh place with Kohler.

of St. Nazianz and St. John of Antigo.

Springs and Pennings will open the meet with a 6 p.m. Thursday contest. Lourdes and St. Gregory are matched at 7 p.m. and St. Joseph and St. Mary vie at 8 p.m. All of the other teams will be in action Friday evening. The finals are set for Sunday night.

Last year's meet consisted of six teams, St. Mary, St. John, St. Gregory, St. Peter of Oshkosh and St. Mary and St. Joseph of Appleton. The Appleton ninth graders have been discontinued as has St. Peter whose ninth graders now attend Lourdes.

Appleton St. Mary won its fourth straight title last year. The Zephyrs have four championships and Green Bay Central Catholic (now Premontré) three.

Neenah Trinity 4th In Lutheran Tourney

Neenah — Neenah Trinity Lutheran school took fourth place in the recent 12th annual Lutheran invitational grade school basketball tournament at Clintonville. The Neenah team lost to Appleton St. Paul 34-25 in the third place game. Tom Dierich scored 13 points for Neenah.

St. Martin Lutheran of Clintonville defeated St. James of Shawano 44-34 for the championship.

Direct Sales Co-op Succeeds When Barn Plan Fails

Facilities Since Start in 1959

BY ROY VALITCHKA II

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Central Wisconsin Co-op Livestock Sales association was started to raise money for an auction sales barn at Shiocton. The plan failed.

Today the association has 4,000 common stockholders and has served 15,000 farmers since its inception as a direct livestock sales agency Feb. 9, 1959. Its headquarters office is at the Armour Packing company, Green Bay.

The whole story started early in 1958. Several Shiocton businessmen proposed building a livestock sales barn in the village. About 175 farmers and livestock men from the Fox Cities area formed an organization to build a building with the agreement that some agent would lease it after it was built.

Members of the association were to create about $55,000 or $60,000 capital, Ralph Gehring, Shiocton, president of the association, said.

Barns were proposed on the east and west side of the Fox river, he said. The one on the east would be at Reedsville, the one in the west at Shiocton, many thought. Valders, Denmark, Bonduel and other sites had been suggested. Reedsville and Shiocton, however, were decided upon at a general meeting of interested farmers.

Raised Money

The association went ahead and raised $11,000, brought the land and had blue prints out for bids when it was told the barn was not to be built at Shiocton but at Bonduel, Gehring said. This came after a number of farmers against the Shiocton location agitated for the new location, he said.

"We felt an auction barn at Seymour, one at Shiocton and another at Bonduel would be too much and too close," Gehring explained.

Farmers Unhappy

Members of the association decided not to build the barn at Shiocton. In September, 1958, the association had 388 members. By December membership had dropped to 150 because of poor sales, Gehring said.

Association truckers were running all over with cattle for different auctions. Farmers were dissatisfied with prices, he explained.

Truckers and farmers, dissatisfied with the auction type sales, went together on direct sales after the Armour company asked the association to set up offices at Green Bay, Gehring said. On Feb. 9, 1959 the association opened its office there.

The office staff consists of a manager, two salesmen and an office girl.

Plan Detailed

The association has 21 truckers from New London, Bear Creek, Appleton, Clintonville, Denmark, Waupaca, Shawano, Birnamwood and Antigo.

"We service an area within an 80-mile radius of Green Bay," Gathering said.

Farmers wishing to sell cattle call the association, a trucker who services a certain area, and leaves word for the trucker to pick up several head of cattle. Truckers get the cattle, drive them to the market at either Armour, Liebmann or Endlick in Green Bay. As cattle are unloaded and weighed, the association salesman prices them. He then bargains with the packing firm buyer to sell the cattle at or near the price he has set. The farmer is paid after the association takes its per head check-off. This amounts to $1 or $2, depending upon the weight of the animal.

Sells For Others

The association not only sells for members but for 12 other sales associations in the Fox Cities area, Gehring said. A listing of members of the other associations and number of cattle sold and prices is sent monthly by the Central Wisconsin unit to these associations.

When the quota at the Armour yards is filled or prices are higher at the other Green Bay yards, association cattle are trucked to these plants to get the best prices, Gehring said. The second association salesman is always stationed at one of these plants, he added.

Since February, 1959, the association has handled 28,000 head of cattle. There are 12 associations affiliated with the Central Wisconsin co-op.

Survey Conducted

A study done at Seymour showed the difference in direct sales and auction type sales. During a 3-month period covering August, September and October, 1959, the average price for 100-pound calves was $22.36 by auction and $21.58 by direct sales. When it came to the 120-pound calf class, the auction price was $26.06 compared to a direct sales price of $26.31. Calves in the 140-pound class sold for $29.25 by auction and $30.44 by direct sales, Gehring said.

Officers of the co-op are Gehring, president; Martin Luther, Gillett, vice president; R. J. Krause, New London, secretary - treasurer; Claude Olson, Denmark, Joseph Siegharter, Birnamwood, Walter Laedtke, Shiocton, and Carlyle Manley, route 1, Appleton, directors.

6¢ feeds
a chick
4 weeks

Chick Starter "20" was formulated for higher nutritive efficiency at the start, of course. But that's only part of the story. Not one pound of this new feed was released for sale until its higher nutritive efficiency had been proved. Then it was researched again; its efficiency stepped up again. And then—again! That's why today it feeds pullet chicks for even less than 6¢, why it produces healthier birds, why it produces birds that develop to the limit of inherited laying ability. Try it!

Marinette Site For Hearing on Milk Orders

Northeast Wisconsin, Michigan Peninsula Affected by Meeting

The U. S. department of agriculture has scheduled a joint public hearing Monday at Marinette to consider proposed amendments to the federal milk orders regulating the handling of milk in the Michigan upper peninsula and the northeastern Wisconsin marketing area.

The hearing to open at 10 a.m. in the Marinette Hotel, has been called at the request of cooperative organizations representing a majority of the producers in the two markets.

Major Proposals

The major consideration at the joint hearing will be the appropriate level of pricing on and after June 1, 1960. Also to be taken up is whether certain handlers and the milk now regulated by the northeastern Wisconsin order should be brought under the regulation of the Michigan upper peninsula order. The territory involved in Menominee and Menominee county, Mich. There is no proposal to merge the two regulations.

In connection with the northeastern Wisconsin order, following are other major proposals which would:

1. Provide for individual-handler pools in lieu of the present marketing pool.
2. Increase the Class III price.
3. Raise the inter-plant transfer and diversion provisions.
4. Revise supply plant delivery requirements for pool plant status.
5. Include a base-excess plan of payment to producers.

$110 Average Price for Sale Gilts

Waukegan — Average prices of $110 for 22 bred gilts and $69.60 for boars were registered during the fourth Northeast Wisconsin Purebred Swine sale recently at Duck Creek.

The boar bringing the highest price was owned by Walter Kaminski and Sons, Waukegan. Their Duroc sold for $100.

The high Poland China gilt selling for $185 was consigned by Wencil Velicer, route 3, Luxemburg.

The sale is sponsored by the cooperative to provide quality blood lines for hog raisers.

Co-op Has Yearly Meeting at Forest Junction

Forest Junction — Functioning of the American Dairy association, economic changes for 1960 and warnings of the federal food and drug administration in regard to use of antibiotics and pesticide residues were explained to 25 members of the School Grove Dairy cooperative at their annual meeting.

The speakers were Dave Albright, De Pere, ADA fieldman for a 6-county area, and Elmer Bruening, cheese marketing representative from Plymouth.

Cheese production of 592,751 pounds listed in the 1959 factory report was slightly below the 595,935 pounds in 1958. A slight decline in the average price per pound of cheese is apparent in the 3219 and .3331 figures respectively for 1959 and 1958. The value of whey cream per hundredweight of milk is up to .2084 in the 1959 report as compared to .183 a year before.

A board of five directors, previously elected annually, was changed to operate on a basis of a 3-year term. Edwin Seybold, president, and Donald Bastian were elected for three years; Bert Stanelle and Allen Knoespe, for two years, and Edwin Loefer, vice-president, for one year. Donald Schell, trustee, serves as secretary-treasurer.

Efficiency of U. S. Dairy Cow Impresses Many in West Europe

Washington — The foreign agricultural service reported that the efficiency and ruggedness of the American dairy cow is making an impression in West Europe. U. S. Holstein and brown Swiss cattle are now competing successfully in some countries there against similar breeds raised in West Germany, Denmark, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

The service said many progressive European cattle breeders have broken tradition by using U. S. bulls. It said the European market appears good for quality American bulls of these two breeds.

Nation's Youth To Observe 4-H Club Week

Outagamie County Members Plan Visits, Activities

About 775 young people in Outagamie county will join in observing national 4-H club week from March 5 to 12. The local youth, 10 to 21 years of age, are among the 24 million 4-H'ers of America who belong to some 93,000 clubs in rural, urban, and suburban communities. Wisconsin has a 4-H enrollment of about 52,500. Outagamie county has 775 reenrolled members.

Among the special 4-H week activities planned for this vicinity are visits to various community organizations and talks at schools and local clubs.

Nationally, 4-H club week will be highlighted in Washington, D. C., by six previously selected members who will present the annual 4-H "Report to the Nation." The report will summarize in story and pictures outstanding 4-H accomplishments and current projects. The three girls and three boys, while in the nation's capital, expect to review the report with President Eisenhower at the White House. They also plan to visit Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, C. M. Ferguson, administrator of the federal extension service, and various senators and members of congress on Capitol Hill.

Four-H'ers everywhere will share honors with the 296,000 adult volunteer leaders who guide 4-H work in local communities throughout the 50 states and Puerto Rico. The main purposes of 4-H club week are to acquaint more young people with opportunities available to them through joining or forming 4-H clubs, to assist new members in starting projects in farming, homemaking, community service and other activities and to inform the public about 4-H aims and methods.

Governor Asks Help for State Poultry Producers

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson has asked the senate agriculture committee to approve legislation that would enable egg and poultry producers to participate in a national price and marketing stabilization program.

The governor says he has written to Sen. Allen Ellender (D-La.), committee chairman, stating that egg and poultry producers in Wisconsin have been hard hit by low prices and need help.

The senate committee has before it a bill that would provide a marketing program if two-thirds of the nation's producers desired it.

"In view of the present severe economic distress of producers of poultry products," the governor said, "I urge your committee to permit producers of eggs and poultry to participate in the program."

Cheese Exchange Head To Retire in April

Green Bay — Robert W. Leffler, 67, Plymouth, has announced plans to retire in April as president of the Wisconsin Cheese exchange. Leffler, a native of Van Buren County, Iowa, has been president of the exchange for 18 years.

Ready to Go!

Peppy OLIVER

3-4 Plow 770

All new...and all set to go, ready to turn out more work in a day and to make it easier for you.

First of all, there's more horsepower in this new 770, coming from a deeper-breathing, higher-speed engine. Add the new Power-Booster Drive and you get 12 forward speeds, almost one-third more pull for heavy going at the touch of a lever—on the go.

Hook a new 4-bottom semi-mounted No. 5440 plow to Oliver's new Power-Traction Hitch and forget about the tough spots. Your 770 just bears down, steps right through at full speed. Put on Powerjuster wheels; let the engine change tread. And make driving a pleasure with power steering.

This is only the beginning. There's a lot more to see in the new 770. You'll want to feel this snappy power, too—in all the exciting new ways.

Kraut Canning Is on at the Seymour Canning company. After cabbage is cut it is placed in large vats to cure. Herbert Wolk, upper left, pitches the kraut from the vat into a wagon for carting to the heating tank. The 28 vats are nine feet high and 12 feet in diameter. Each holds 20 to 28 tons of raw cabbage. After heating the kraut is broken up by men, upper right, to see if it is sufficiently warm. Mrs. Charles Surman is the first woman in the line to fill cans as they move along through the heating tank. About 30 people, including 10 women, are employed during the winter canning season. After cans are capped, they continue to the end of the line where Vernon Kemps, lower right, places them in a bucket on wheels. From there they move along for boxing.

State Takes Action Against Hitch-Hiking Bugs, Pests

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The state department of agriculture has taken action to guard against bugs and other pests that may be hitch-hiking into Wisconsin aboard the ships calling at Wisconsin Great Lakes harbors.

The department has authorized a special Wisconsin lake port inspection service, officials announced today, because it is dissatisfied with the quality and extent of the protection afforded by the inspection division of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Guard Agriculture

The objective is to guard Wisconsin agriculture and other interests from insects and possibly disease, that might otherwise gain entry into the state.

Donald McDowell, director of the department, names the Khapra beetle, of Asiatic origin, as one of the threats.

The microscopic insect can quickly run grain in storage, he said, and once established would require an enormous expenditure to extirpate.

State Must Act

Wisconsin thus far has managed to fight off the Japanese beetle, another dangerous foreign invader, but it may reach the state by way of ocean-going steamships unless precautions are taken at Wisconsin ports of entry, he said.

Many other bugs and diseases ought to be guarded against, in his view.

McDowell indicated some annoyance at the failure of the federal agriculture department to extend its services with the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway. But since it has defaulted, the state must act, he told the state board of agriculture.

Conservation Districts Ask State Support

Gov. Nelson Says Small Appropriation Seems in Order

Stevens Point—A starter appropriation of $80,000 from the state legislature to aid districts was recommended Wisconsin soil conservation Tuesday by the retiring SCD association president Oscar Laper.

He made the request before Gov. Gaylord Nelson at the annual state meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors here. Laper, Rock Springs, served three years as president.

"In the near future there will be more positive action at the state level for SCD," Gov. Nelson promised in an address before Laper's request was made.

"A modest appropriation seems to be in order to help SCD," he said. "As the public learns more about soil conservation, there will be more support for it," he added.

Other States Do It

"We need help from you, Gov. Nelson, and from members of the legislature," Laper said. "States around us are doing much more, dollars and cents-wise, to help the soil conservation districts than is Wisconsin."

Laper said surrounding states allotted money to their districts—$300,000 a year in Iowa, $173,000 in Minnesota, $81,000 in Michigan and $81,000 in Illinois.

The state now gives $47,000 to the state soil conservation service committee. None of this, however, goes to the 71 districts in the state. This amount, Laper explained, is used for salaries, promotion and travel expenses for the executive secretary of the state soil conservation committee and his staff; conservation publications, and workshops for SCD supervisors.

Might Bring Federal Aid

The $80,000 starter appropriation would be divided among the districts, giving each about $1,100, to pay SCD

Conservation, Training Important, Nelson Says Action Asked

Says Dangers to Resources Include Waste, Apathy, Expediency, Low Income

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA, II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor
Stevens Point — Conservation and education are the two most important functions of government in relation to the pressing natural needs of this country, Gov. Gaylord Nelson said here Tuesday afternoon. "I won't suggest which is more important," he told the Wisconsin Association of Soil

Roy F. Valitchka II, Post-Crescent farm editor, was in Stevens Point Tuesday and today to cover the state meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors. This story, and others on this page, describe the activities there.

Conservation District Supervisors. "Both are critically essential, but they do overlap."

Pure Water Precious

One year of bad conservation or bad storms can destroy the topsoil it took nature thousands of years to build, he said. "We are just beginning to become aware how precious pure water is," he said. "We are finding out in many areas that pure water is scarce. Most of our fresh water originates on the same farm that produces our food. Our game and fish resources likewise depend upon the land and water that is in the custody of farmers."

Conservation districts have done much to restore beauty to the countryside, but there are serious dangers ahead clerical help and promote work on Project 556, Laper went on.

Project 556 is a watershed law which provides federal aid if 50 per cent of an area above a dam is contour plowed and in conservation practice, and if it can be proved that land below the dam is benefited. Funds from the appropriation would be used to which threaten the program, Nelson warned. "One is official apathy," he said. "At the very time our swiftly growing population is building up explosive pressure upon our natural resources, we find the original zeal for conservation has disappeared from the high level of government. This is no time to permit our national conservation effort to become a lackadaisical routine."

Urges Watershed Programs

The governor suggested speed up of small watershed programs, pressure to clean streams, lakes and rivers and placing every acre of farmland under a sound soil and water conservation plan.

Another danger cited was carelessness and waste.

"Under the hastily thrown-together acreage reserve program a few years ago, the U.S. government spent $1.6 billion to pay farmers for plowing under their crops or not planting, he said. "This cost as much in three years as an entire generation of SCS activity."

Low Income Dangerous

A third danger to conservation, the governor said, was a new federal soil bank proposal without sound soil conservation features. Even the conservation reserve program, which does provide lasting conservation benefits, is in danger of becoming wat-

Laper Recommends Association Add 2 New Committees

Stevens Point — Addition of committees on education and legislation to the Wisconsin Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors was asked here Tuesday by Oscar Laper, association president, at the annual meeting.

"Much has been done to educate our young people in the philosophy of soil and water conservation," he said. But, he added, there is still room for improvement.

"I believe that we, as a state association, should have an advisory member on the conservation commission as well as on the state soil conservation committee," he said.

Area People Participate

Fox Cities area residents rated high on an evening program. An Amherst girl, Linda Budzbanowski, first place winner in the soil conserva-ered-down with short-term expedients, he said.

Low farm income is also a danger, he said. "The stewards of our land and water supply simply can not fulfill their public duty to conserve and beautify the natural countryside when their incomes are not adequate to provide equal opportunities for their families."

Classify Wisconsin Lakes By Use, Nelson Recommends

Stevens Point — Sensible zoning for use of Wisconsin lake in 15 minutes, you don't need a motor boat at all," the Gov. Gaylord Nelson here Tuesday.

"One of the biggest disappointments is going to arise when we classify our lakes according to use," he said. He told how large motorboats speeding up and down on a shallow base lake can kill fish and spawn, harm recreation and endanger lives. Some lakes are meant for motor boats, some not, he said.

Vagrant, Panhandler Enter Guilty Pleas

Alan Winkler, 35, West Allis, was fined $10 for vagrancy speaking contest, gave her speech, "Conservation is Everybody's Business."

Stewart Huber, route 1, Clintonville, whose subject was "Is America Really Concerned with Using Its Soil and Water Resources Wisely?" was first place adult winner in the contest. Lloyd Wolters, route 2, Algoma, received first place in the junior division. Each was awarded a $50 savings bond.

"Conservation of our soil and water resources may have a greater impact on our future, than some of the more spectacular things such as the atom bombs and sputniks," Huber said.

Charges Complacency

"Americans are becoming complacent about soil and water conservation needs, and this is not the time to consider reducing appropriations for such needs. It is more important than ever that we conserve these resources," he continued.

Waupaca county soil conservation district supervisors at the meeting were Arthur Roepke, Clintonville; John Dredtke, Manawa; William Kramer, Fremont; Rudolph Ploetz, New London, and George Barber, Waupaca.

cy when he was arraigned Tuesday in municipal court. He pleaded guilty.

Norbert J. Flett, 28, Green Bay, was fined $50 with an alternative of 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty of panhandling. The final 20 days of the jail term was stayed on condition Flett leaves town.

Brotherhood Is Understanding, Combined Locks Students Write

Essays Written for School Contest
In Observance of National Week

In observance of Brotherhood week, Combined Locks state graded school conducted a student essay contest. These two essays on "What Brotherhood Means to Me" were among those entered in the junior high school contest. Shari Meltz, 13, is an eighth grader and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Meltz. Ruth Voights, 12, is a seventh grader and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Voights.

BY SHARI MELTZ
Brotherhood, as defined by Webster, means the state of being brothers. But what does it mean to the individual?
In a community such as Combined Locks, it doesn't mean much because we take one another for granted. We all are approximately the same. But in other parts of the nation, and even in the state, this equality does not prevail. The reason can be summed up into one word: prejudice.

Actions Speak
Prejudice is something we all have in us. We were not born with it, but it was learned through environment. At one time or another, most all of us have probably displayed prejudice, because of differences in race, creed, financial status or even jealousy. But if we stop to think of prejudice, it is foolish. We think ourselves superior to someone when actually, he is better than us because he is not as prejudiced toward others as we ourselves are.

When someone says you're no better than the next person, it hurts. We all like to feel superior. How do you think others feel when you do the same thing to them? Maybe not in words, but "actions speak louder than words." A person of a different race or creed should not be rejected, but understood. How many of us would want to lend a helping hand to a colored person if he came to Combined Locks penniless? How many would welcome him in their class or club? Not many of us, I'm afraid. I'm just as bad as the next one when it comes to being prejudicial, but I'm going to do something about it. I'm going to live brotherhood not just talk about it, not just this week but the rest of my life.

BY RUTH VOIGHTS
What does brotherhood mean? Brotherhood to me does not mean loving everybody in a sentimental fashion, but it does mean understanding all persons no matter what race, religion, or social group they are from. Brotherhood is true democracy spelled out in daily living. It is the Americanism of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution.

If brotherhood is so important why don't all people practice it? There may be a number of reasons for this:
First, some people look only at the few corrupt people in a race and refuse to see the kind and wonderful people this race is really made up of. They then declare this race "uncivilized" and peer down their noses at them every chance they get.

Second, some people practice prejudice and discrimination only because the group does.

Follow Example
Finally, some people were brought up in homes that practiced prejudice and so naturally they followed their parents' example. Prejudice and discrimination are usually brought about by ignorance and lack of understanding.

To make sure you know what brotherhood means, ask yourself these questions:

1. How do I think about people? Do I agree that all people are important and have equal right to respect, understanding and acceptance?

2. Do I accept — or reject — people on the basis of their race, religion, name, etc. or on the basis of personal qualities as individuals?

Religious Brotherhood
3. Do I practice religious brotherhood in my community?

4. Do I agree with Gen. William Dean that "by combating bigotry, I contribute to the practice of Americanism — our nation's best defense against the psychological attack of the Kremlin?" What does prejudice cost your community?

You have heard what brotherhood means to me and my opinion of it, but to make Brotherhood week successful you, the American citizen, must decide what brotherhood means. But above all you, as an American, must practice it.

Couples Celebrate Christmas Late, or Early, At Fifth Annual Post-Yuletide Festivities

Whatever Santa Brought, it seems to be something particularly laugh provoking judging from the expressions of William Merkel and Mrs. Leon Toopen. The post-Christmas celebration was the fifth annual party attended by a number of Fox Cities residents.

Leon Toopen, Santa, surprises Mrs. William Gmeiner, Neenah, with a gayly-wrapped Christmas package at the Christmas in February party Saturday evening at Stroebe's Island Inn.

Elks Ladies Initiate 30 New Members

Thirty new members were initiated into the Elks Ladies 337 club Monday evening at the Elks club. They were Mmes. Name Chairmen

Mrs. Russell Peotter was named general chairman and Mrs. Earl Solomon was named co-chairman of the "Spring Time Tempo" hat style show and luncheon to be held April 6 at the Elks club.

The decorations committee includes Mrs. Ralph Acker, chairman, Mrs. Robert Liethen and Mrs. Roger Harrmann. Mrs. L. F. Fox heads the refreshment committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Matt Chuchel.

Mrs. James Schultz, chairman, and Mrs. Sylvester Thiel are in charge of tickets and Mrs. Joseph Lemberger is chairman of the favors committee. Mrs. Raymond Max will assist her.

Proceeds from the show will be used to buy a portable television set for the Appleton City home.

A children's used clothing drive will be held March 12 and the clothing will be distributed to the Salvation Army, the Lutheran Welfare society and the Appleton Apostolate.

Colored slides of "An African Safari" were shown by Miss Mary Ebben.

Mrs. Carl Bauer and Mrs. Erwin Hantschel were members of the social committee and the hospitality committee included Mrs. Richard Mullen, John A. Muenster, Earl Schabo, Patrick Earle and Chuchel.

In Good Taste Flowers or Candy in Order Here

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Just recently I visited my son and his wife who live in a distant city. While there I was invited to dinner at my daughter-in-law's parents' house. I had a most enjoyable evening. I thanked them when I left but am wondering if I should show my appreciation in some other way. I do not live in my own house so I can never expect to entertain them.

Answer: Nothing further is expected of you, but if you like, you may send your hostess a few flowers, a box of candy or some table delicacy. Seating Parents at Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: Are the parents of the bride and groom ever seated at the bridal table, or is this table reserved only for the members of the wedding party?

Answer: At a very small wedding, especially in a house wedding, when there are few in the bridal party, the parents are sometimes seated at the bridal table, but usually they are seated at their own table.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her booklet No. 502, entitled, "Etiquette of Letter Writing," send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Campus Group Plans Room Opening Party

A completely decorated and equipped recreation room for Lawrence students, the Viking room in the Memorial union, will be officially opened tonight at a party sponsored by the union committee. Entertainment and refreshments have been planned for the celebration.

The ample room on the lower floor of the union now has a stone fireplace over most of one end, booths along the wall beneath the windows, removable partitions which separate the game equipment from the snack area, indirect lighting, a juke box, piano, and concession stands.

Approximately $10,000, donated by a friend of the college, was spent on the project, according to union committee co-chairmen Helen Edelhofer, Chicago, Ill., and William Whitmore, Grand Haven, Mich. The committee worked closely with the school administration to complete the room, which previously had been the site of several arena-style plays and all-school dances.

June Wedding Planned by Engaged Pair

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Jacquelin Fenisyn, Whitefish Bay, to Patrick J. Barrett, Milwaukee, has been made by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Fenisyn, Whitefish Bay. Barrett's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson J. Barrett, Peshtigo.

The bride-to-be attended Marquette university and was a member of Delta Sigma Gamma. Her fiancé attended Lawrence college, affiliating with Phi Kappa Tau.

They will be married at 10 a. m. on June 25 in Milwaukee.

Sig Eps Elect Local Students

The University of Wisconsin chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity has elected Kenneth Look, Kaukauna, as president; Noel Eberhardt, Appleton, historian, and Walmer Hoewisch, route 1, Fremont, secretary.

The bride-to-be is a senior at Appleton High school. Gill attended Appleton High school and was graduated from a California high school. He now is working for the Abel Construction company.

An Aug. 6 wedding is being planned.

Your Problems

Neighbors Want Feud Decided By Common Sense, Not Law

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our next door neighbors could easily win your award for "Louisiest Neighbor of the Year."

They've done so many mean and unkind things that it would take the whole paper to list them. We're Ann Landers writing about the latest stunt because we need advice.

Our 10-year-old son left his bicycle in their driveway. I admit he should have put it in our garage, but you know how kids are. The neighbor woman is a miserable witch to begin with and pretended not to see the bike. For spite she drove right over it. It's so badly broken up that no shop would attempt to repair it.

Now she has the gall to complain because her car is scratched up. When I told her she should replace the bike she said, "Don't make me laugh."

We say she failed to exercise the normal amount of caution and therefore we are entitled to a new bike. Don't tell us about the law. Decide on the basis of common sense. — N.N.N.

Dear N.N.N.: The law is based on common sense. Buy your son a new bike when you think he has learned to take care of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A certain boy I will call John is nice but dull dull dull. He keeps calling me for dates but I would never go out with him again. Once is enough I was never so bored in all my life.

Honestly, I was exhausted when I got home. I not only had to work my head off making conversation but my face was stiff from smiling.

John calls at least twice a week to "talk" and never has anything to say. He has asked me out five times since that first date and I am plum out of excuses.

I hate to hurt his feelings by telling him there's no chance and to please stop calling, but I'm tired of trying to think of legitimate reasons why I can't go with him. Please help me. — No Hope Here

Dear No Hope: You just can't destroy the poor guy by telling him he's dull and to stop calling. The best out is to say you're busy but you have to call Suzie, Mary, Dottie or Lee. Name are lazy louts. — J. H. Pre-Med

Dear J.H. (John Hopkins I'll bet): Far be it from me to suggest that the serious student is as rare as the whooping crane. If I insulted you midnight oilburners, I offer my humble apologies.

I wanted to make it abundantly clear to No Phi Beta Kappa that there's no substitute for old fashioned study. This learning in your sleep jazz will never replace studying while awake.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and who inquired about learning Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed that all college students dressed envelope.)

Kimberlares Hear Quartets

The Kimberlares chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., were entertained by two Appleton barbershop quartets, the Astorites and the Harmon-Knights, and by an Appleton High school girls' quartet, the Melody Blazers, at its meeting Tuesday evening at Kimberly-Clark corporation.

Margaret's World Full of Gossip, Broken Romances

BY NORMA GAUHN

A pretty, fun-loving princess lives in a world of gossip about her love life.

That has been the lot of Princess Margaret Rose, the lively younger sister of Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

Rumors may start on such flimsy evidence as a dinner date — even though the couple always is in a group of six or more.

Tongues wag if a princess dances more than once with the same young man... or if an eligible nobleman comes to call... or if the two are guests at the same house party.

Now all those tales have been laid to rest with the announcement by the Queen Mother that Margaret Rose is betrothed to 29-year-old court photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Five months older than the princess, Armstrong-Jones is the son of the Countess of Rosse and a prominent London jurist, R. O. L. Armstrong-Jones.

As with other beaus, Margaret's friendship with the young man did not go unnoticed. They were first seen dating early last year at theater parties and social events.

The "is it serious?" talk began when Armstrong-Jones took an official picture of the princess on her 29th birthday in August — even though some critics said it was badly composed.

The princess herself had learned to ignore the gossip. Once, while her sister was being groomed for the queen's ship, Margaret remarked:

"The papers will turn Lillibet into the dull one, so they have to make me gay."

Called "Maggie"

Margaret Rose — affectionately called "Maggie" in the pubs and tabloid press — did little to discourage romantic rumors and, in fact, seemed to enjoy keeping people guessing.

When Elizabeth married and the Duke of Edinburgh and his bride left Buckingham palace to live at Clarence house, Margaret filled the void in her life with many young friends who shared her enjoyment for dancing and theater parties. They became known as "Margaret's set."

King George VI was reported upset at his daughter's partying, but her understanding mother told a friend:

"We're only young once and we want Margaret to have a good time while she can."

Margaret touched off talk and sometimes controversy in 1949 the princess, then 19, was photographed on holiday in Italy in a one-piece bathing suit; seen smoking a cigarette, rarely done by royal ladies in public; and had an audience with Pope Pius XII.

Before Princess Margaret found her husband-to-be, her life was touched by the tragedy of a broken romance. This second of two articles tells about the Townsend affair — and the happy ending to Margaret's search for happiness.

that annoyed some British Protestants.

But the fact that Margaret was not the frivolous butterfly pictured in newspaper headlines came through in her unhappy romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, squerry to the royal family and 14 years older than the princess.

Shortly after Elizabeth's coronation, reports mushroomed that Margaret and Townsend were in love. The story was spiced by the recollection of the royal uproar 20 years before, when the Duke of Windsor renounced his throne for American divorcee Wallis Simpson.

The handsome Townsend, a fighter pilot who downed 11 German planes in the Battle of Britain, had served the royal family 10 years. But he left suddenly to become air attaché in Brussels when talk grew louder of his romance with the princess.

Townsend had divorced his wife in 1952 on grounds of adultery and was awarded custody of their two children. But under ancient law, Margaret could not marry until she was 25 without the queen's consent.

And Elizabeth could hardly give consent as nominal head of the Church of England, which frowns on divorced persons remarrying. Many thought that when Margaret reached her 25th birthday, she would follow her heart.

Duty Before Love

But in the stern tradition of royalty, duty came before love. In a statement Margaret said she knew she could contract a civil marriage by renouncing her rights of succession to the throne.

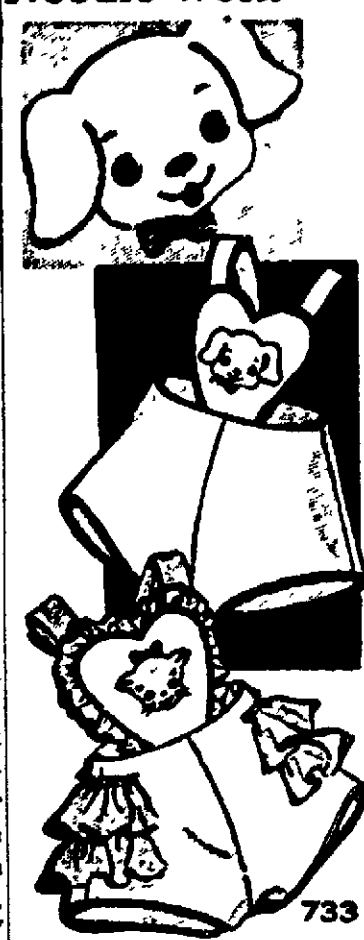

"But," she added, "Mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble and conscious of my duty to the commonwealth, I have put these considerations before any others."

Four years have passed since that unhappy time, and now marriage — at a date to be set later — is in store for the fairy princess.

Armstrong-Jones appears to be emotionally well suited to the fun-loving Margaret. At least they have quite a bit in common.

The princess always has been a theater buff. Her photographer fiancé has an exclusive clientele that includes many theatrical celebrities.

Margaret always has been clothes conscious and demonstrated a flair for style. Her name regularly appears on the best dressed lists.

Armstrong-Jones has a creative interest in high fashion, and like Margaret, is not afraid to speak his mind on the subject. He tried his hand at dress design in ski clothes recently, saying his fellow Englishmen always look like they were wearing borrowed clothes at a winter sports event.

Who will be the boss in the household is anyone's guess, but Margaret is not adverse to having the man wear the pants in the family.

"When I marry," she once said, "I need someone firm to keep me in order."

Poor Marks Indicate Attitude Needs Change

BY ANGELO PATRI

A child gets a poor report card, or a note that says he should pay more attention to his homework as he is not doing well in class, or maybe it says his classroom behavior is unsatisfactory.

His parents ask, "What's the matter with you?" and the boy replies: "Aw, she doesn't like me. She's always picking on me. Somebody throws a paper wad and she is sure it's me. She has pets that can do anything. She always asks Benjie the easy ones and saves the tough ones for me. I can't learn in her class."

Nor in any other, with that attitude. Next thing, he says: "If I could be in Miss Jennie's class I'd do all right. Can't I get in her class?"

Change Refused

So Mother, worried sick, goes to school and asks if her boy who isn't doing so well can be tried with another teacher. The principal listens gravely, shakes his head and says: "I doubt it. It is not his teacher's fault that he is not doing well. There are about 40 other children in that class and they get along all right for the most part, those who are not, do not blame the teacher." "But he says—"

"Yes, I know. But I know that wherever he goes he will take himself and his faults with him. He will carry along his laziness, lack of attention, his don't-care attitude and that is not going to help him. What will help him is a change of attitude—"

"Exactly," replies the principal, and you can help him more than we can in that. Until he wants to get to work, makes up his back work, understands that it is for himself he is doing this, the teacher he has will not matter. No. We will not change his teacher."

String Quartet Will Perform at College

An addition to the already full concert schedule of the Lawrence Music-Drama Festival year is the Curtis String Quartet of Philadelphia which will perform at 8:15 p.m. March 11 in the Memorial chapel.

No admission will be charged for the reserved seat tickets which may be obtained at Bellings pharmacy.

The four musicians, who comprise one of the oldest of contemporary ensembles, are Jascha Brodsky, violinist; Mehli Mehta, violinist; Max Aronoff, violist; and Orlando Cole, cellist.

Brodsky, a pupil of the great quartet player Lucien Capet, completed his studies with Eugene Ysaye and Efrem Zimbalist. While touring Europe as recitalist and orchestra soloist, he impressed Mischa Elman who recommended that he proceed to America, where he joined his present colleagues at the Curtis institute.

Mr. Mehta, newest member of the quartet, is a graduate of Bombay university and former violinist with the Bombay chamber music society. He was also concertmaster and founder of the Bombay symphony orchestra. He has studied at the Juilliard school of music and is a protégé of Ivan Galamian.

A faculty member of the Curtis institute for 13 years before establishing the New School of Music, Aronoff has been a student of Louis Bailly, violist of the late Flonzaley Quartet.

Orlando Cole is a graduate of the Curtis institute, where he was a student of Felix Salmond. He later became a faculty member of the institute and has often appeared as soloist with orchestras, in recitals and on radio.

The quartet is sponsored by the New School of Music, of which the four are faculty members and Aronoff is director. Purpose of the school is to train symphony players to meet the demands of modern orchestral playing.

The Curtis Quartet was a recent participant in the 1959 Philadelphia Arts Festival, for which it received a civic commendation.

For the Friday evening program the group has selected works of Haydn, Mendelssohn, Shostakovich, and Dvorak.

Auxiliary to Meet Friday

The Charles O. Baer auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans will meet at noon Friday at the armory. A luncheon will be followed by the business meeting at 1:30 p.m.

Miss Ione Lutz, department president from Jefferson, will attend. Miss Lutz will be the house guest of Mrs. Clara Defferding, 1127 W. Harris street.

Invite Public To AAUW Talk

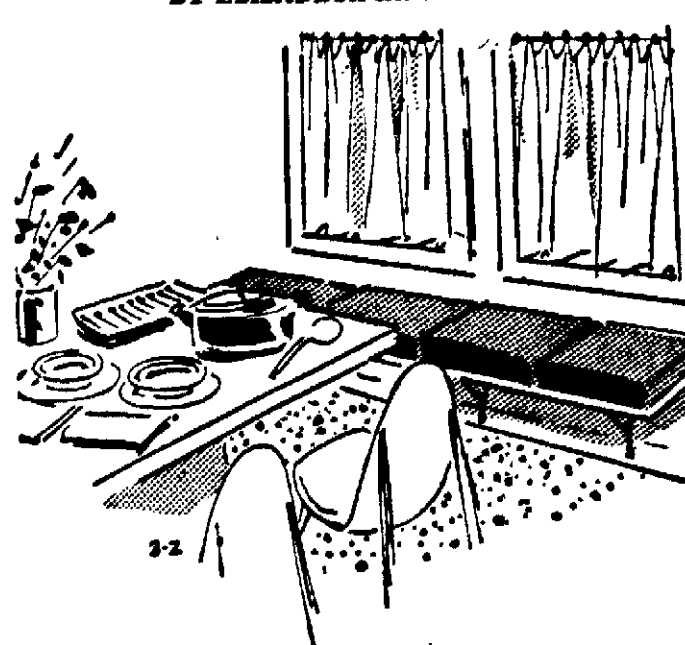

The public has been invited to attend the AAUW general meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Lawrence college Worcester Art center to hear Prof. Mansoor discuss "The Dead Sea Scrolls." Mansoor is chairman of the department of Hebrew and Semitic studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Student to Take Part in Recital

Miss Joan Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul Gilbert, 1038 E. Eldorado street, will appear in the Student Chamber Music recital at Oberlin college Sunday. Miss Gilbert will play the violoncello in a Mozart Quartet in G minor.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Bench Expands Dining Room Seating Capacity

Until the day when designers give us expandable dining chairs to match expandable dining tables, there's still the problem of finding extra seats for guests. Here's one way of solving it, with a chair-height bench which builds in under windows where no other furniture would go, in a room which would be hopelessly crowded with enough chairs for the table's full length.

The bench is handy at any time and intrudes little upon the floor space between it and the table while it's in its everyday size and position. But when the table expands, it swings one long side around to the bench, which takes care of seating for that complete side. No chairs, matching or miscellaneous, need be moved in from another room.

Mrs. M. W. B. "Now that my young sons are old enough for school, their room needs doing over, and my big problem is the three big windows that nearly cover one wall. The white wash-and-hang curtains must go, and matchstick blinds could be the answer except that they're so easy to see through and aren't too colorful. What do you suggest that will spare me the chore of washing heavy curtains, or draperies to go over the blinds?"

Some matchstick blinds are backed or filled to make them opaque, and these are often colorfully patterned. Another idea is the wood slat shade that bevels the slats so the edge of one fits over the next to leave

International Friends Fete

Miss Link at Birthday Party

A group of foreign-born persons in the Fox Cities, most of them students at Lawrence college, paid homage to a mutual friend and benefactor Friday night.

The occasion was the birthday anniversary of their guest of honor, Miss Florence I. Link, Lawrence college librarian. A dinner and evening program was held at the Neenah YWCA.

The festivities had an international flavor, including the traditional birthday cake which was a huge one, large enough to serve all 50 persons attending the event. The cake was the special gift of Young Chul Sim, Korean economics student at Lawrence.

Other program events included folk dancing, songs and games as well as solo presentations. Geology Prof. Leonard and Mrs. Weis presented a folk dance demonstration and led the group in folk dancing later in the evening.

Miss Inge Weiss, Lawrence conservatory faculty member, sang a solo; Miss Nancy Bodenstein, music student, tap danced; Mrs. Hansa Josi, Neenah, native of India, presented songs and dances of her country, and Zi Hyung Sa, Lawrence college senior, sang folk songs of his native Korea.

Members of the committee in charge included Miss Isabel Ramirez from Colombia, South America; Zi Hyung Sa, Prof. and Mrs. Weis and Miss Grace Mc Lay, executive director of the Neenah YWCA.

Plan FVL Open House

Mrs. Harold Arndt, Kaukauna, has been named chairman of the Fox Valley Lutheran High school guild's open house-rally May 15. Parents of students and friends of the school from an area from Sturgeon Bay to Fort Atkinson are being invited to the event.

Flat Tire Started Something

BY CHARLES M. CROWE

"Who . . . out of weakness were made strong." Hebrews 11:34

Back in 1942 Thomas Carvel was making carnivals and fairs with a nice cream machine built on his truck. On the way home one day he had a flat tire. While he was repairing it by the side of the road someone stopped and asked him to sell some ice cream. Soon there was a line of cars waiting to be served. Before he could fix his flat he had sold out all his ice cream. This gave him an idea. Before long on that very spot Tom Carvel set up his first roadside ice cream stand. Today his company has almost 1,500 such stores in this country, in Europe and in South America.

Flat tires can lead to big things! Illness, accidents, defeats and failures of all kinds can be but the beginning of bigger and better things. This is not just a sentimental idea. It is one of the great facts of life. God has built into us the power to overcome, the ability to take the setbacks that come and make something out of them. We may be knocked down but we don't need to stay down. Men of faith always show a strong come-back power. Faith has the strange capacity to build new hopes and dreams on the wreckage of the old.

Read: Hebrews 11:32-40

PRAYER: Eternal and everliving God, faced with discouragements over which we have no control, grant us the courage to find in them the way out and up and on. Amen.

Cooking Tip

Slightly beaten egg yolk thinned with water will give pastry or cookies a shiny glaze.

a friendly opponent and a lucky break in diamonds. Trump the third round of hearts with the 10 of spades and lead the deuce of spades to finesse dummy's seven!

This weird trump finesse does not give you an additional trump trick. It merely gives you an additional entry to the dummy. You arrive in dummy with the seven of spades and you can get back later with the nine.

You use the first entry to lead the king of clubs from dummy. East covers with the ace (if he didn't you would discard a diamond), and you ruff with the jack of spades. Now you get back to dummy with the nine of spades to cash the queen and jack of clubs. This enables you to get rid of two low diamonds, and the contract is assured.

Kimberly Youth Wins Jaycee Script Contest

David Dresang Cites Meaning of The American Way

Dennis Dresang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert E. Dresang, 140 S. Lincoln street, Kimberly, was named winner of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce "My True Security—the American Way" scriptwriting contest at an awards dinner Tuesday night at the Elks club.

Dresang, a senior at Kimberly High school, is past president of the school student body, a member of the national honor society, a letter winner in track and football and co-editor of the school annual. He also is a member of the debate team.

In his script, Dresang said the liberty bell, statue of liberty, Uncle Sam and the tomb of the unknown soldier are emblems of security, liberty, opportunity and self-respect to Americans.

Matures Through Experience
He compared the founding fathers to chemists, and said, "In their laboratories at Philadelphia, our forefathers took individualism, the cry of the beatnik, the self-centered, the anti-social, the hated eccentric, and group effort... and combined them to form a mode of living that has been a boon to our country and our strongest weapon against all of our enemies, external and internal."

As a child grows and matures he takes advantage of the knowledge and experience of his elders and then gains the confidence to depart from the beaten path and tread on new ground, Dresang said.

Prefers Challenge
"As an American, I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence, the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of utopia. This is my true security, this is my heritage — to stand erect, proud and unafraid; to think and to act for myself; to face the world boldly that I may be able to say, 'This I have done!'"

Judges on the final eight entries were A. F. Zuehlke, Roger Baird and Howard S. Thelin.

Awards were presented by Dennis Herring, who substituted for Jaycee president Don C. Smith.

BY CAPPY DICK

Here's a new chance to win a popem rocket!

This new, exciting, full-of-action prize, offered here for the first time a week ago today, will be awarded to each boy or girl who wins today's puzzle contest.

The popem rocket outfit consists of a rocket launcher and two plastic nose cones. When the launching device is activated the nose cones are sent flying high into the air.

Fire popem rockets will be given away as the prizes in this contest. To try for one of the awards, here's how to proceed:

With your scissors, clip out the four oddly-shaped pieces in the picture above. Fit them together to make a bird. When you know how to assemble them, paste them that

Bishop to Speak To State Catholic Library Meeting

The Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, bishop of Green Bay, will speak at the spring meeting of the Wisconsin unit of the Catholic Library association at Sacred Heart seminary, Oneida, March 26. The theme of his talk and of the workshop will be "Censorship and Guided Reading Activities."

Also on the program will be the Rev. Noel Korzeniecki, O. Praem., librarian at Abbot Pennings High school, West Pere; Sister Mary Clarence, O.S.F., librarian at the Catholic diocesan education office, Green Bay; and Miss Mary Lou Ziga, head of St. Catherine's Book shop, Green Bay.

Registration is at 10 a. m. and the bishop's address at 10:30. After a noon dinner, there will be workshops for high school, elementary school and parish libraries.

Catholic librarians working in public libraries or public school libraries have been invited to participate. Reservations may be made with the Rev. Carl E. Steiner, Sacred Heart seminary, Oneida.

French Poetry Reading Contest to be April 2 At Lawrence College

The annual French poetry contest, sponsored by the Wisconsin chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French, will be from 2 to 4 p. m. April 2 at Lawrence college.

Appleton is a regional center for these semifinals readings. The finals will be in Madison on April 9.

Each participating school may enter one student for each of six levels of competition: first, second, third and fourth year high school, and first and second year college.

Students may read the text or recite from memory as they wish. Names of contestants and their level must be sent at least one week before the semi-finals to the chairman, Dr. Bruce Cronmiller of the Lawrence college French department.

City Attorney To Study Tax Bill Complaint

Council Hears About Assessment Charged To Irregular Property

Kaukauna — Members of the common council voted Tuesday night to refer a complaint of a citizen on his tax bills to the city attorney for study and recommendation.

Through an attorney, Joseph Van Daalwyk objected to receiving a single tax notice for two separate pieces of property with special assessments on both sites charged against one piece of property.

Van Daalwyk claimed he has received similar tax bills for the last three years and each time paid under protest. Main objection is an assessment for curb and gutter against a 1-foot strip of land, 160-foot long, adjacent to Sixteenth street.

Go Delinquent This assessment along with an assessment on Fifteenth street property are listed on one tax bill in a lump form. Van Daalwyk seeks a clear description of the two separate pieces of property on a tax bill, each with its special assessment. The city is reluctant to do this as a 1-foot strip of land has little value and could be let go delinquent thus nullifying assessment for improvements.

City officials point out the property is carried on official tax rolls as assessor's plat thus the tax billing is legitimate. The city attorney contends the assessment is valid as it goes farther than the 1-foot adjacent strip.

Aldermen indicated this was a problem considered several years ago with little results. The city attorney was instructed to study the matter and come to the council with recommendation on action to follow.

The city engineer, board of public works president and street commissioner were authorized to tour city parks and mark dead, undesirable and overcrowded trees for cutting and removal.

A program of tree removal on property leading to the extension of Island street to Tenth street was approved pending a report from the insurance carrier on whether men doing the tree cutting would qualify for compensation as employees of the city.

Atty. Emmet Rohan assured aldermen the men would be covered but promised to contact the insurance carrier to have this stated in written form.

Payment of $9,994 for two trucks was approved and permission was granted the VFW to use the Lawe street park for a picnic on July 8, 9 and 10. A request for funds to aid the parade in conjunction with the affair was referred to the finance committee for study.

Deny Pardon for Former Veterans' Service Officer

Madison — George K. Nitz, former Brown county veterans service officer who was sent to prison for the theft of county funds in 1954, today was denied a pardon by Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Nelson said he rejected an application for executive clemency that would have had the effect of ending parole supervision of the former official on the recommendation of his pardon counsel, Thomas Pierce, a Madison lawyer.

Nitz served about three years in state prison and was released on parole two years ago.

The result of the pardon denial is that Nitz will remain under the supervision of a parole officer here or elsewhere, and will be required to make periodical reports to him, until December 16, 1965, when he will become eligible under the conditional release law.

Nitz was sent to Waupun for a term of five to 15 years. Counting his parole time he has now served his minimum term. The maximum term would expire in 1974.

The long-time county official is now 63 years of age.

He was convicted in Brown county municipal court for the theft of money, notes, and orders of the county entrusted to his custody. The indictment said the theft amounted to more than $10,000 and less than $25,000.

On the House

Charlie Talks on Many Things, Eating Habits, Political Barbs

BY CHARLES HOUSE Post-Crescent Staff Writer

POIPOURRI — A literate lady from Clintonville has a small worry, and I find myself in sympathy with her. Small things sometimes disturb me for years, and perhaps they disturb you, too.

House help, help.

One of the words of music which captivates me is "hermitemisemiquaver." It means a sixty-fourth note.

I, too, have been searching for a word for years and I have not yet found it. The word I seek specifies that things always happen by threes. They really don't, but they often seem to. For that reason there is a word which does the job aptly, but alas, I have not found it.

I have been burdened, too, with a problem to which I have found no answer and it has troubled me for years and years.

Americans, however, take the fork in their left hand to hold the food — especially meat—which they cut with a knife held in their right. They then put down the knife and transfer the fork to their right hand. It is clumsy and time consuming and must be done with every bite—and we are the only people in the world to do this.

Furthermore, when we set the table, we set it European fashion with the fork on the left side.

Ergo, if the United States is largely made up of Europeans and should be therefore subject to European motor habits, why is it that we eat with our fork in the right hand?

I have consulted scholars on this question, but the answer has never been found, at least to my knowledge.

Now that political barbs are flying, it would be well if we took a look at a technique employed by Abraham Lincoln who was a master at the art of deflating a political opponent.

When Gen. Lewis Cass was being touted for the Democratic nomination, the Cass cy, he would "protest they shall not make fun of me as they have of Gen. Cass, by attempting to write me in to a military hero."

Lincoln did enlist as a private in that tragic little war against the brave, beleaguered Indians under Chief Black Sparrow Hawk in 1832, but his tour of duty here lasted only two weeks. Lincoln, then 23 years old, was elected by the tough soldiers in his outfit to serve as their captain.

Lincoln and his troops were demobilized near Whitewater, Wis., where his horse was stolen. He set out on foot over a trail through Janesville toward his home in Illinois.

A statistician reports that if one employs an "average" kind of snow, each shovelful will weigh 16 pounds. Ergo, if you removed 60 shovelfuls of snow from your sidewalk this winter, you lifted 6,000 pounds. Makes you tired, doesn't it?

A lady in Oshkosh was having some peculiar trouble with her television set. It worked fine except for two hours of every day in the week. During that 2-hour period, the picture did not show although the audio was fine. A TV repairman experimented and found that the picture ceased only when the sun was shining.

The house had metal Venetian blinds and when the sun shone into the house, she pulled the blinds down. The blinds faced the incoming signal and the antenna was of the outside variety. He fixed the set by opening the blinds.

Lincoln cut him down in a shrewd speech to the congress. He said: "Mr. Speaker: Did you know that I am a military hero? Yes, sir, in the days of the Black Hawk war I fought, bled and came away. Speaking of Gen. Cass' career reminds me of my own.

"It is quite certain that I did not break my sword for I had none to break; but I did bend my musket by accident. If Gen. Cass went in advance of me in picking whortle berries, I guess I surpassed him in charging on the wild ones. If he saw any live, fighting Indians, it was more than I did, but I had a good many bloody struggles with the mosquitoes and although I never fainted from loss of blood, I can truly say that I was often very hungry."

Lincoln went on to say that if he should ever be a candidate for the presiden-

Toms Claims Spraying Articles Not Factual

Says He Could Tear Them Apart but Fellow Alderman Says He Recalls Authorization

Kaukauna — Ald. Jewel Toms Tuesday night challenged the facts in four Appleton Post-Crescent articles on the spraying equipment controversy and claimed he could "tear them apart and throw them in the editor's face."

He claimed his investigation showed that at no time was overpayment to Ald. George Luebke for rental of the equipment discussed informally or formally at a board of public works meeting and that Luebke had no trouble in paying back $748 as one article indicated.

But Fred Reichel, also a Fifth ward alderman with Luebke, said he recalls discussion of the weed spraying program and said he had approved a second to a motion to hire the equipment from Luebke. He wondered why two newspapers covering the story said the same thing and, if the spraying program had not been discussed, where the city got the idea to rent Luebke's equipment if the contract had not been authorized.

Rental Fees Luebke was paid a total of $1,748 in rental fees which have since been repaid to the city pending a decision on whether he, as a city official, could enter into contract with the city. The city attorney instructed Luebke to return the money in full because, he claimed it is illegal for a city official to enter into agreement for money amounting to over $1,000.

Payment to Luebke was made in four installments. Each time the council approved the bills and authorized payment. The 10 aldermen approved the bills in a roll call vote. They did not question the payments to Luebke, the record shows.

Project material was distributed to new members and plans for a cage tourney were discussed. A talent show highlighted the entertainment. Participating were Norman Micke, in charge. Colleen Dolan, Donna Lambie, Bob Lambie, Dave Van Zeeland, Conrad Marx, Mary Dolan, Judy Verbeten, Judy Huss and Margie Van Rooy.

The next meeting will be March 15 at Oak Grove school.

Plans for the heating system in the new police station in the southeast basement corner of the village hall were shown to the board. Several changes suggested by the state building inspector, Willard Van Handel, have been incorporated into the plans, the building and grounds committee reported.

In other action the board approved the giving of $450 to the Little Chute Baseball club, Inc. The money will go toward the purchase of new uniforms. This was the first request for financial aid that the club had asked for in the last three years. Kimberly also will provide funds for the Little Chute-Kimberly entry of the Fox Valley Baseball league.

A relief claim of $194.77 by the city of Appleton was denied by the board.

The finance committee reported that a check of $3,509.41 has been received from the state as the village's share of the liquor taxes for the last six months of 1959.

50 KHS Students Preparing for Eastern Tour

Kaukauna — Over 50 Kaukauna High school students have expressed plans for participating in the annual Eastern tour to be held during Easter vacation.

Fred Barrieau, instructor, and his wife will serve as chaperons for the trip which will include visits to historic sites in the east as well as to Washington, D. C.

Complete information on the trip as to cost and accommodations are available from Barrieau. A meeting of students and their parents is planned to cover all aspects of the trip prior to time of departure. The tour is open to upperclassmen.

Peabody Manor
Residence for Aged
More Than Shelter

BY MARY ELLEN DUCKLOW
"A roof over my heart."
That's what Peabody Manor will be, a way of life that offers dignity, companionship, peace and safety for retired persons over the age of 65.
Peabody Manor already is taking shape. The drive to raise the necessary $500,000 to make the building a reality is underway. Plans, blueprints and sketches have been drawn. Dozens of people, headed by the Appleton Visiting Nurse association board of directors, have given it four years of study.
George F. Peabody had the first dream; it was in the benevolence of his active and perceptive spirit, more than

Third of Series
50 years ago, that Peabody Manor first took shape: "...a home for retired ladies. ... near a street car line. ... Today that dream includes both men and women from Outagamie county, Neenah and Menasha.
From a bequest to a building to a way of life — the picture is taking shape.
A roof over one's head is one thing. The first essential to be guaranteed for aged retired persons is the easiest — just shelter. But a roof "over my heart" is something else, and that's what Peabody Manor's planners are building for the ladies and gentlemen, 50 of them, who will be its first residents.
For the modest cost which will be charged them — for room and board and essential services, with no down payment, no signing away of life savings or long-term commitment — Peabody Manor's residents will live in comfort.

In Mainstream
They will be close to the mainstream of life, near their churches, their favorite stores, theaters, within easy reach of friends and family. They will live among fellow residents with whom they can talk, really talk, which is better than listening and remembering. In short, they will live.
Peabody Manor will be livable and cheerily contemporary; there will be neither the clinical coldness of stark "modern" nor the dark gloom of the old-fashioned.
Private rooms, each with its own lavatory, will be big and airy, 11 by 17 feet, large enough to accommodate three guests and a card table for an evening of bridge, or pinocle or schafskopf. What's more, residents will be able to bring in their own treasures — pictures from the past, favorite chairs or other suitable furniture. Two-room suites with connecting lavatories will be available for husband and wife teams, for a pair of sisters or brothers accustomed to living together.

Two elevators will whisk residents to their floors — one is large enough for a bed. Halls in the 3-story building will be well-illuminated, bright by day and with concealed wall lights for night. The halls, eight feet wide, will have handrails. Some walls, where needed, will be sound-proofed. Ceilings will be of acoustical material; floors will be of quarry tile, asphalt tile, treated cement, terrazzo or terrazzo with carborundum, depending on use. Minimum door widths will be 42 inches, and they'll open and close easily.

Other Features
Windows will slant open, will have storms and screens and sills high enough for safety, yet low enough for good visibility. Optimum lighting is being designed throughout; outlets will be waist-high. Call bells will be installed for residents' rooms, with a buzzer system from office to first and second floors. There will be special lights in the infirmary wing to alert attendants; bathing rooms on each floor will have switches that also will turn on signal lights at nurses' stations.
Residents will have their own radios and television sets in their own rooms if they wish, and TV sets will be provided in the solarium on each floor and in the lounge. Administrative offices, linen rooms, mini-mum laundry space (since home laundry will be sent out), a trunk room in the basement, janitor service rooms on all three floors, janitor's workshop in the basement and basement space for a future residents' workshop — all these are in the plans.
The living-dining room will measure 46.5 feet by 17 feet, half of which will be dining space, where tables for four will be equipped with sturdy, well-balanced chairs with arm rests. Storage space for table setting items will be built into a shallow wall cabinet within a sound box between dining area and kitchen.

The Administration of Ashes on Ash Wednesday to members of the Catholic church is symbolic of the beginning of the lenten period. Shown preparing the ashes by burning palm fronds are, from left, Msgr. Emil Schmit, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Joseph Weyenberg, and the Rev. Joseph Boehm, assistant pastor. After preparing the ashes, they were blessed by Father Boehm. Altar boys are William Secor, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Secor, 918 S. Kernan street, and Patrick Gendron, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Gendron, 912 S. Walden street.

Functional Kitchens
The expertly planned and functionally equipped kitchen and food department will have food carts to serve the infirmary by elevator. Kitchens will adjoin the solarium on the first and second floors.
Medical and health services will consist of single and double rooms, bathroom, an isolation room, waiting alcove and two bathing rooms. Single rooms will have lavatories; double rooms will share a lavatory. There will be a nurse's station with dispensing room, examination and treatment room, utility room and nurses' lavatory.
Peabody will have a pleasant, functional apartment for its administrator, consisting of bedroom, bath, kitchen

These Boys are Among thousands of Catholics in the world who will have a symbolic touch of ashes applied to their foreheads at Ash Wednesday services today. The Rev. Robert Vandenberg, assistant pastor of St. Theresa church, distributed the ashes after an 8 a.m. service this morning. Ash Wednesday marks the beginning of a 40-day period of fasting and abstinence ending Easter Sunday.

City's Agent
Humane Society May Retain Dog Control

The Outagamie County Humane society will continue to act as the city's dog law enforcement agent for the rest of the year at $250 a month, the city's dog law committee recommends.
The society and the committee Tuesday night agreed that a temporary agreement should be made giving the city and the society time to work out some sort of permanent arrangement. The society's shelter, on Weimar street near the sewage treatment plant, is temporary, because the city has shown every indication of terminating and living room, and the building will be rounded out with the Visiting Nurse association headquarters.
The building will have a 3-story central section shaded by trees, with long, low single story wings on either side. Lots of light, lots of glass, shrubbery-lined walks — these will make Peabody Manor much more, indeed, than merely a "roof over my head."

Spring-fresh and ready-to-serve. Sealtest Spring Garden Salad Cottage Cheese! Made as only Sealtest knows how. This light and lively salad is pure, creamy-smooth Sealtest Cottage Cheese with lots of your favorite young garden vegetables already mixed in.

You, too, will become a cottage cheese fan once you've tasted Sealtest Spring Garden Salad Cottage Cheese.

Ask for it at your store . . . or at your door. But be sure it's Sealtest Spring Garden Salad Cottage Cheese.

COTTAGE CHEESE

SOUPER IDEA

Prepare your favorite tomato soup the usual way, but as you serve, mix in vigorously a quarter cup of Sealtest Spring Garden Salad Cottage Cheese for each cup of soup. Adds a zip and tang that turns even ordinary soups into real taste treats! Try it with plain bouillons, too.

SPRING GARDEN OMELET

A favorite with a new lift! Beat two eggs, with fork or whisk, adding salt, pepper and 3 tablespoons of Sealtest Milk or Cream. Fry omelet over low heat. Turn, then spread a quarter cup of Sealtest Spring Garden Salad over half. Fold omelet quickly and serve.

Terrors meet Kimberly Thursday night in the Hortonville sub-regional tourney.

NOTES and NOTIONS

After mulling the pros and cons of the Appleton High school football situation, I've concluded that it would be better for the "homeless" Terrors to continue playing at Whiting field instead of transferring their games to Goodland field—as they appear want to do. My reasoning goes something like this: (1) If the Terrors once become entrenched at Goodland field—and any money is spent on suggested improvements—they'll never realize their long-time dream of eventually getting a made-to-order gridiron of their own. (2) Goodland field is not designed for football, and many fewer fans can watch a grid game in comfort there than at Whiting. (3) With possibly as many as three games a week on the busy Goodland field schedule, the turf for all games would be in pretty bad shape. (4) No benefit would accrue to AHS from the scoreboard, the press box and other facilities which the Quarterback club helped provide for the use of both Lawrence and the Terrors.

Issue Stresses AHS' Need Anew

The issue, of course, stresses anew the big need that a school of AHS' size has not only for its own game field but for a respectable practice field (the current one usually becomes a dust bowl by mid-September). The feeling persists that officials missed the boat some dozen years ago when they didn't purchase available acreage west of the Soo tracks and south of Highway 10 for a giriron. But that's over and done with. Last fall, some AHS backers got a behind-the-scenes movement started for the purpose of finding a site and raising funds—but, to all appearances, that's dormant now. Possibly, nothing will come of an Appleton gridiron until some future time when a south side high school becomes reality. But, the dream should be kept alive. In the meantime, it would seem better to continue taking advantage of the fine Lawrence facilities at Whiting field. Denials notwithstanding, we can't help but feel that this current AHS desire to switch stems directly or indirectly from last fall's short-notice shift of the Fond du Lac game. There would continue to be some scheduling conflicts of course—and perhaps once or twice a season AHS would find it impossible to get away from undesirable Friday afternoon dates—but they've been worked out for 30 years, with but a single exception. This corner sees no "crisis" that necessitates a radical department now.

Sioux City may be the only Three-I league club to transfer any of its 1960 home games to another site. The Soos will play a pair of games in Omaha June 26 against Lincoln and Aug. 22 against Des Moines.

Judging from enthusiastic comments we've heard, the TV viewership of last Saturday's United States-Russia hockey game was almost in a class with that of Green Bay Packer football or World Series action. The game—and a gripping ice saga it was—must have won a lot of new friends for hockey. It also won a lot of international respect for the U. S. which heretofore had not been considered a hockey stronghold. (The few American players who've made the grade in the National Hockey League—the sport's major circuit—is indicative of our lag on this endeavor).

Paul Meany, 1959-60 scoring champion of the Fox River Valley conference, equalled the record of 310 points for a junior that was set by Green Bay East's By Prentice in 1956-7.

Here's fair warning to you athletes: save a clipping or some other proof of your current participation—or the day may come when your sports ability will be challenged. This little admonition is prompted by a perfectly sincere—though in a way, amusing—note we received from Mervin T. Schneider, of Johnstown, Pa. It seems that Schneider—a former Menasha—has a sports-minded 10-year-old son who assumes a "show me" attitude any time old dad's athletic accomplishments are mentioned. The chagrined Mervin admits he has no proof of his football days at Menasha High to show this lad "from Missouri." Randy Haase, who covered the Bluejays at the time, checked his files for me and con-

'Rated' Kimberly and Appleton Open Sub-Regional Thursday

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

If Ed Sullivan were to refer to this week's Hortonville sub-regional basketball tournament as "a really big show," he could hardly be accused of exaggeration.

The elite, 4-team field—Kimberly, Appleton, Kaukauna and Hortonville—is composed entirely of statewide "Big 16" or "special mention" teams. None of the other 39 sub-regional centers boasts so exclusive a field. Each of the four Hortonville tourney quintets is either a conference champion or runnerup.

Rated Entries Collide
In addition, the meet is one of the only two in the state that brings two rated entries together on opening night. Kimberly (No. 6) and margins of three points or less.

The AHS—Kimberly—fracas—long-awaited encore of their triple-overtime, season-opening duel—brings together the two hottest teams of the tourney. The Mid-Eastern champion Papermakers and the Fox River Valley co-champion Terrors have each won five games in a row.

This will be the first time the Gil Frank-coached Papermakers and the Dick Emanuel-directed Terrors have ever met on a neutral court. And, it will be in the nature of a rubber game.

Their 6-season rivalry is now a 5-5 standoff, and each Tiedemann, Hopfer Appleton (No. 15) collide in the 7 p.m. Thursday inaugural. (At Chippewa Falls, third-ranked Eau Claire plays fourteenth-rated Menomonie in the opener).

Hortonville and Kaukauna clash in the 8:30 nightcap of the Hortonville show. The first-night losers play at 7 p.m. Friday, with the opening-round winners vying for the sub-regional title at 8:30 Friday.

The eventual winner moves over to Menasha Saturday night for the regional title test against the Menasha sub-regional ruler.

No more tickets are available according to Tournament Manager George Akin. A sell-out of some 1,500 fans—including standees—has been a fact for some time now.

Defending regional champion Kimberly, which goes into the tourney with the best record (15-3) and the highest rating, is the logical slim title favorite—although its opening game with AHS looms as practically a toss-up.

Well Armed
Appleton (12-6) and Kaukauna (14-4) also come well armed with title-contender credentials, while dark-horse Hortonville (14-3) cannot be taken lightly.

The four quality entries have lost a combined total of only 16 games—and 11 of these losses were by minute

Talented Collegians Battle for Honors In 3 Sessions at Lawrence This Weekend

Fans who rely on TV for their wrestling action will have a chance this weekend to get a refreshingly new slant on the sport.

Friday and Saturday, Lawrence college will play host to the Midwest collegiate conference mat tournament for the first time in nine years.

There'll be no valets, no perfume, no scripts, no gimmicks in this collegiate brand of wrestling—just "straight" head-to-head battles of skill, strength and stamina between eager (and oft-times, talented) youths.

Wrestling, which requires more physical conditioning than almost any other sport, is today's fastest-growing college and high school athletic endeavor. The MC meet will feature some of the best collegiate matwork in the country.

Defending champion Cornell, for example, has been beating Big 10 and Big 8 schools with regularity. Three sessions are scheduled at Alexander gym. The preliminaries begin at 7 p.m. Friday. The semi-finals and preliminary consolation bouts start at 1 p.m. Saturday. The consolation and championship finals begin at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The admission price per session (with 18 and 36 matches scheduled in each segment) is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for youths of high school age and under.

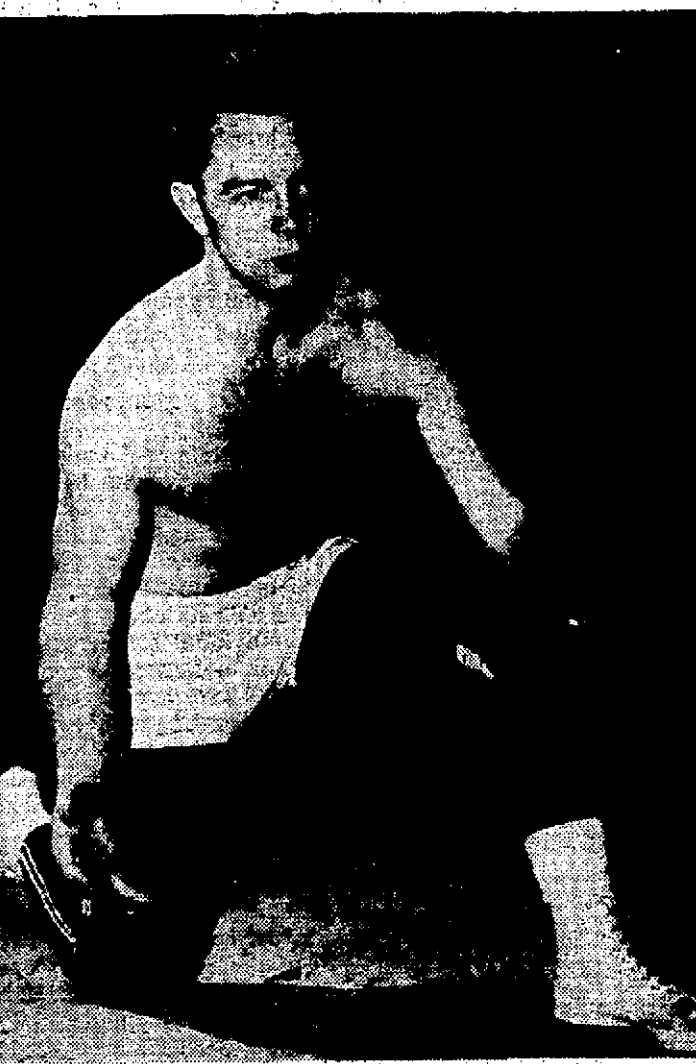

One of the biggest appeals of wrestling, according to Bernie Heseltin (Lawrence coach and MC meet director) is that it's individual against individual. It's an even more demanding type of clash than boxing because of the sustained action—the two opponents are in direct contact for at least 90 per cent of the match. The wrestler is strictly on his own—relying on his strength and wits—for there's no help forthcoming from teammates or advice from the coach.

The change of tide in wrestling can be more abrupt than in most other sports, says Heseltin, because the "under" man can upend his foe and gain a pin in seconds. Collegiate wrestling has become more crowd-pleasing in the last few years because the rules-makers have put increased accent on offense. Penalties for "stalling" have been one method of discouraging too much defensive wrestling.

As important as quickness and strength are to a good wrestling, balance is probably the most important skill of all, according to Heseltin. Some of the attributes of a tumbler go into the making of a good wrestler.

A good wrestler anticipates what his opponent will do and takes advantage almost automatically. Most collegians know the same mat maneuvers, but the successful ones are those who can anticipate. Lawrence's Bob Smith, current MC heavyweight champion

Lawrence College's Bob Smith will be one of the featured performers in the Midwest conference wrestling meet scheduled here Friday and Saturday. Smith, current MC heavyweight champion, goes into the tournament with a perfect 1959-60 record.

Cornell Picked For Tourney

Altenberg Finishes With 2nd Highest MC Average Ever

Cornell, which was four games out of first with four to play and yet tied for the Midwest conference title, has been picked to represent the league in the NCAA small college tournament.

The Rams, selected for the berth by league athletic directors, opens play in Galesburg, Ill., this week. Ironically, Galesburg is the home of Knox college, which blew a prohibitive 4-game lead to Cornell by dropping four straight while the Rams were winning their last four, including a 75-62 win over Knox in the finale.

Cornell's Ron Altenberg topped the league scoring title with a 28.1 per game average. Defending champion

City Bowling Tourney Entries Due Saturday

Bowlers were reminded today by Appleton Bowling association Secretary "Bud" Wegner that Saturday is the entry deadline for the twenty-first annual city tournament.

The meet will be held March 19 to March 27 at the Appleton Elks club alleys. The tournament fee is $2.75 which should accompany the entry blank. Competition will be in team, doubles, singles and all-events.

Late-Game Warrior Surge Earns 67-61 Win Over Xavier

MU Goes Over 100,000 in Home Attendance; Kojis Nears Mark

Milwaukee — Don Kojis and Walt Mangham sparked Marquette in a second half rally Tuesday night to give the Warriors a 67-61 victory over Xavier of Cincinnati.

Kojis scored 21 points and now is only 19 away from the single season scoring record of 526 for a Marquette player.

Kojis has 508 points and has one game, against Creighton at Omaha Friday, to get the remaining 19.

The Warriors, noted for their late game collapses this season, did an about face against Xavier and put together nine straight points in a 2-minute span to go ahead 58-48 in the final period enroute to their thirteenth victory against 11 defeats.

While Mangham, playing with an injured left shoulder and an arm heavily taped, snared 10, the Mangham got 18 points for the Warriors.

Xavier, which now is 17-9 for the season, was led by Billy Kirvin who had 18 points and Jack Thome with 16.

The final game at home for Marquette drew a crowd of 6,016 to boost the Warriors' attendance for 15 playing dates, including an exhibition with the freshman squad to 100,477. It was the first time in history the Warriors reached the 100,477. It was the first time in history the Warriors reached the 100,000 mark.

McCullough Lauds Fred Bruckbauer And Hector Maestri

Orlando, Fla. — Ex-catcher Clyde McCullough, now a spring training instructor for the Washington Senators, is impressed with the team's rookie pitchers.

"I think Washington has more good young arms than I have seen on any ball club," he said Tuesday.

McCullough cited Fred Bruckbauer, Jack Kralich, Don Lee, Berto Cueto, Hector Maestri, and Dick Schulz. (Bruckbauer and Maestri led the Fox Cities Foxes of the Three-I league in victories in 1959).

Torre Claims He'll Beat Out Joe Adcock

Plans to Rebound From Poor Season, Get Regular Job

Bradenton, Fla. — You can take it from Frank Torre that there will be a left-handed first baseman playing regularly for the Milwaukee Braves. "It will be Frank Torre," Torre predicted when he reported for practice at the Braves training camp Tuesday, four days ahead of schedule.

"With me on first base, the Braves can win the pennant." The 28-year-old Torre said he was confident he could fight off veteran Joe Adcock for a regular job and help his teammates regain the pennant.

Torre played in 137 games in 1957 and 139 in 1958, alternating frequently with Adcock. He batted .309 in 1958 but last year slipped to .228 in 115 games and Adcock was used more often than Torre.

Adcock, who throws and bats right-handed, hit .292 and had

Rodriguez to Battle Vejar In 10-Rounder

Miami Beach, Fla. — Before his last fight, Luis Rodriguez was perturbed by claims he couldn't punch, so he set out to prove the criticism was unfounded.

He made his point. He knocked out previously unbeaten Carl Hubbard in four rounds for his twenty-seventh victory in 27 starts.

He gets a chance tonight to show the kayo was no accident. He meets rugged Chico Vejar in the 10-round main event at the Miami Beach auditorium. The bout will be televised over the ABC network at 9 p.m. CST.

Vejar has been stopped only three times in a 10-year career during which he has engaged in 110 fights. He has knocked out 41 of his opponents.

Shawano, Bonduel To Meet Thursday

Clintonville Plays Pulaski '5'

In Sub-Regional Meet Nightcap

Clintonville Meet

Thursday Night's Games:
Game No. 1—Shawano vs. Bonduel (7:30)
Game No. 2—Clintonville vs. Pulaski (8:30)
Friday Night's Games:
Game No. 3—Loser game 1 vs. loser game 2 (7:30)
Game No. 4—Winner game 1 vs. winner game 2 (8:30)

Shawano and Bonduel, two clubs with impressive season records, open play in the Clintonville sub-regional basketball tournament at 7 p.m. Thursday night.

The 8:30 p.m. finale pairs Clintonville and Pulaski. The Trunkers defeated Seymour, 90-68, earlier this week to gain Thursday's semi-finals.

The championship and consolation round winners at Clintonville meet the corresponding clubs from the Waupaca sub-regional Saturday evening at Waupaca.

Shawano finished in a third place tie in the strong Mid-Eastern conference with a 9-5 record and is 13-7 overall. The Rudy Ellis-coached Indians lost to Stevens Point in the has won twice in tournament competition (Kimberly won in 1955 and 1959, while AHS prevailed in 1956 and 1958).

Hoppe Leads

Ron Hoppe, a 6-5 senior center, is the Indians' top scorer with an 18-point-per-game average. Forward Guy Booth (6-0) and guard Bill Krenger (5-7) are other Indian seniors and are averaging about 12 and 9 per-game, respectively.

Bonduel, captured the Central Wisconsin conference championship with a 12-2 mark and has a fancy 17-3 overall standard. The Bob Hanson-coached Bears are a big club though one of their top scorers, Steve Nault (senior guard) is just 5-9. Bill Dussling, 6-5 senior center, is another offensive pacemaker. The Bears, who lost to just Gillett, Wittenberg and Manawa, have beaten Pulaski twice. Pulaski's Red Raiders boast an 11-7 overall mark and finished in a second place deadlock in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference with a 10-4 standard.

Senior forward Fred Zittlow (6-0) is averaging about 16 points per game and senior center Doug Sorenson (6-3) about 12 per contest. Fred Kestly is in his first year as head coach. Pulaski had a 6-game winning streak broken by Oconto Saturday.

Jerry Grunski-coached Clintonville finished with a 2-12 mark in the Mid-Eastern conference, for seventh place. The Seymour victory boosted their record to 3-14. Senior forward Leon Westphal (6-0) is the top Clintonville scorer followed by Mike Zingler, Dick Bennett and Jim Sutliff.

76 runs batted in in 1959, playing in 115 games.

Manager Charlie Drensen said it will be tough choosing between Adcock and Torre.

"We'll just have to wait and see," he said.

"It has been proven in the past," Torre said, "that I can be the first baseman on a pennant winning club. When we did win in 1957 and 1958, I played in the majority of the games."

"I feel that Adcock is a notorious streak hitter," Torre said. "Sooner or later he's bound to go into one of his slumps. Then, when I get my chance, I'll be ready to take over."

Was Disgusted

"Last year, after July, I got so disgusted with the inconsistency of playing, I didn't do the running as I had done in previous weeks. This year it is going to be different. It's not going to happen again."

"I have no excuses, but after that good year in 1958, I feel that I should have been given a good chance to un-track myself after that bad start. But then I was benched and used mostly against the rough hitters. Toward the end of the season I hit only against Sam Jones of the Giants and Don Drysdale of the Dodgers. To hit against those guys, you've got to get used to the strike zone. And you can't do that sitting on the bench."

Vikes' Vogel Sets MC Frosh Mark

Lawrence's Chris Vogel set a new Midwest conference freshman telegraphic swim meet record in the 440-yard free style in the 1960 meet. The Viking Freshmen placed third in a 6-team field.

Team point totals were: Grinnell, 634; Carleton, 494; Lawrence, 20; St. Olaf, 11; Beloit, 7; Cornell, 5.

Vogel's winning time was 5:08.10. He also finished second in the 220-yard free style in a clocking of 2:19.8 behind Carleton's Raney, who set a new record in 2:15.3.

The Lawrence 400-yard medley relay team finished third, in 4:45.1. Members were: Vogel, John Davidson, Steve Myers and Jack Grenzbebach. The Viking 400-yard free style relay outfit of Jim Carey, John Davidson, Tom Pearl and Bill Schier placed fourth in 4:19.5.

Roosevelt 7th Graders Finish League Season With Undefeated Mark

The Roosevelt school seventh grade basketball team finished its league season unbeaten after a 22-7 victory over Wilson in its final start.

Final Appleton public schools Seventh Grade league standings read: Roosevelt, 6-0; Madison, 3-3; Wilson, 0-6.

In the Roosevelt-Madison clash, substitute guard Dick Moen wired eight points and Jim Hayes seven to lead the winners. Miller scored four for Wilson. Earlier in the week Hayes had scored 18 as Roosevelt toppled Madison, 35-27.

Braves Take 4-Hour Workout; Spahn's Knee Stiff, Puffed Up

Braden, Fla. — The Braves should be well trained in the fundamentals of baseball when the National league opens at Milwaukee April 12. Manager Charlie Dressen Tuesday sent all of his players through a 4-hour drill in which hunting, sliding, and pick-off plays were stressed.

Warren Spahn's left knee on which he was operated a few months ago puffed up and was stiff. The veteran south-paw hurler refused to let it bother him, however, and he went through another long workout. "I'm not going to baby it, Spahn said. I've got to work it back into shape."

Dressen said that he may use Joey Jay, a young right-hander, both as a starting pitcher and in relief roles this year. The manager added that he also may shelve the traditional system of rotating his top hurlers in favor of "spot" against some clubs. With six starters, Dressen will reserve pitchers for clubs against whom they have had good results.

Topnotch Mat Talent to be Featured Here

Championship bouts in the MC meet are nine minutes long, with each of three periods running three minutes. Third and fourth place bouts will be six minutes long.

A fall (when a wrestler's shoulder touches the mat for two seconds) ends the bout in any period.

Take-Down: Taking opponent to mat, with advantage — 2 points.

Escape: Escaping from foe's advantage and gaining neutral position — 1 point.

Reverse position: Escaping from foe's advantage and gaining the advantage — 2 points.

Near fall: Holding foe's shoulders to mat for less than 2 seconds or within 1 inch of mat for 2 seconds — 3 points.

Predicament: Both shoulders within 4 inches of mat for 1 second — 1 point.

Time Advantage: Earning one minute or more overtime after the foe's time is subtracted (a grapples scores time advantage when he is in control of his foe on the mat, after earning that position) — 1 point.

Ivann Grimm of Carleton finished second with a 24.7 mark. Altenberg's average replaces Grimm's mark of 27.2 (in 1958-9) as the second highest in conference history. Grimm's 3-year total of 1,388 sets a new Carleton record for both 3-year and 4-year totals.

Lawrence's "Chuck" Knoke was the highest Vike in conference rankings with a 13.9 average for tenth place. Jim Rasmussen owned a 13.1 mark for sixteenth spot. Loren Wolf, who played in only seven games, had a 13.3 average.

The best way for a manager to put himself on the spot is to make a pitching change. He also leaves himself open to a lot of second guessing when making a batting change.

Here is a courageous soul who does both before a batter has been retired. You deserve to be at the head of the class if you answer this supposed situation correctly.

It's the last half of the fourth inning and Pittsburgh has the bases full with two out. Dick Stuart, the right-handed slugger, steps up to the plate. Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies takes out southpaw Curt Simmons and calls right-hander D. C. Farrell to relieve. Before Farrell throws a single pitch, he catches Roberto Clemente off second with a snap throw to retire the side. Farrell, a weak hitter, is due to be the first Philadelphia batter in the fifth. Sawyer sends in a pinch hitter, Dave Philley, who bangs a double off the right field wall. Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates runs out on the field contending Farrell shouldn't have left the game since he hadn't pitched to one batter until he was either retired or reached base.

Do you think that:

a. Farrell should have been made to bat?

b. Philley should have been declared out as an illegal batter?

c. Philley was entitled to his 2-bagger?

Six Teams in Field For 'Y' Fellowship Volleyball Tournament

Six teams are entered in an Appleton YMCA Fellowship Volleyball tournament Saturday. In the field are clubs: Hugh Septic, Riverside, Y's Men, Y' Class and Earl Litho and printing.

Each match in the round-robin tournament will be two games of 12 points each. The winner will be determined on the basis of total victories. In case of a tie for first a 1-game playoff will be held. Matches are slated for 12 noon through 7:30 p.m.

Hortonville's losses were by two points to New London, by one to Shiocton in double overtime and by four to Shiocton. Kaukauna lost by three to Shawano and by seven to Neenah. The other Ghost losses — by wider margins — were to Kimberly and Menasha.

The officials Thursday will be the Battemans — Marlon and Virgil.

Last year's sub-regional tournament was delayed two days because of heavy snows.

Carol Heiss Leading in World Meet

Netherlands Girl Is Second in Compulsory Figures

Vancouver, B.C. — The word "Heiss" means hot in German and that was the way Carol Heiss of New York City was skating today as she moved into the second round of the 1960 World Figure Skating championships.

Queen Carol, holder of the women's title for four years, showed plainly Tuesday she intended to run the string to five.

Two dozen skaters from 12 nations spun through two compulsory figures each on the opening program. After the first one Miss Heiss was leading her closest opponent, Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands by 5.7 unofficial points. In the second figure she spread this margin to 11.1.

Four more compulsory figures are on the program for the women today. Then they will rest until Thursday night, when free skating will close out the competition in the women's singles.

Forfeits Game

Chicago Coach Stampf Won't Let Team Play in Second Half

St. Louis — The last game of the season for both the University of Chicago and Washington university of St. Louis ended on a sour note Tuesday night. Chicago's coach, Joe Stampf, refused to let his team take the floor after the first half, thereby forfeiting the game to Washington, 2-0.

The halftime score was a tie, 29-29.

Stampf claimed he was getting a raw deal from the officials particularly Referee Eddie Davidson, who called a technical foul on Stampf midway in the period.

"I felt that in this man's mind (Davidson) the calls appeared to be motivated by a predetermined feeling as to what should happen."

"Five or six times he overlooked walking and two or three times baskets resulted after the violations."

"I felt that if it was a close game—and it looked like it was going to be—we couldn't win."

Davidson is a veteran official who has called many important games with no more than the usual complaints. He declined comment.

Washington's coach, "Chuck" Smith, wouldn't comment either.

As far as fouls were concerned, it was an even game with each team having seven called against it.

Davey Moore Rated Month's Top Fighter

Ring Magazine Raises Machen
To No. 4 Spot

New York — (U) — Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, is Ring magazine's "fighter of the month."

The world featherweight champion received the award for his eighth-round knockout of former European champion Sergio Caprari of Italy in their nontitle bout recently in Caracas, Venezuela.

Moore was the only world champion to get into action during the last few weeks, so there was little disturbance in the Ring magazine monthly ratings.

Machen Advances
Two gains occurred in the heavyweight division. Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., moved into fourth place in the list of challengers through his knockout triumph over Billy Hunter last Friday at New York's Madison Square garden. Alex Miteff of Argentina, jumped from tenth to eighth after knockout of Jose Georgetti.

The flyweight rankings also underwent some juggling. Johnny Caldwell of Ireland moved from tenth to sixth on his victory over Risto Luukkonen of Finland. Ray Pacheco of Reno, Nev., grabbed the No. 10 spot after beating Ramon Arias of Venezuela, formerly ranked No. 3.

The middleweight division saw Dick Tiger of Nigeria shift from eighth to seventh after his victory over Gene Armstrong, moving Carmen Basilio to eighth. Also, Joey Giardello, matched to fight Gene Fullmer for the NBA crown, advanced from sixth to fifth, swapping with "Spider" Webb.

Bobcats Play At Marquette Open Semi-Final Series for League Playoff Crown

Green Bay — The Green Bay Bobcats, who already own the Central Hockey league championship, start in pursuit of the league's playoff title this week.

The Bobcats invade Marquette, Mich., Thursday night in the first game of a best 4-out-of-7 semi-final series. The second game will be played here Saturday night, with the third set for Marquette Thursday, March 10, and the fourth here Saturday, March 12.

Between those assignments, the Green Bay Skaters entertain the Milwaukee Falcons in a rematch here Sunday night. The Bobcats will be seeking a second victory over their intra-state rivals, who dropped a 7-6 decision in their first meeting here Jan. 26.

The other playoff series, between the runnerup Rochester Mustangs and the third place Minneapolis Millers, is scheduled to open March 12. The semi-final winners will meet in a best-of-7 series for the playoff title.

The Bays will be strengthened for the playoffs by the return of Player-Coach Johnny Mayasich and center Paul Johnson, fresh from helping the United States win the Olympic ice hockey championship. Mayasich returned Monday night and Johnson is scheduled to arrive Wednesday.

The Bobcats still are without the services of wingman Gerry Martila, however.

Paul Waner Returns To Teaching Post

Clearwater, Fla. — (U) — Paul Waner, one of eight players to collect more than 3,000 hits in a major league career, is back in business today teaching others to do what he did so well.

The "Big Poison" of the Pittsburgh Pirates outfield in the 1920s and 1930s bounced back from a tuberculosis bout and heart attack last year and signed this year to teach the Philadelphia Phillies the mechanics of hitting. The Phillies officially opened spring training today.

Williams Pessimistic About 1960 Comeback, but Musial Is Hopeful

By The Associated Press
Ted Williams and Stan Musial, venerable members of baseball's old guard, view their chances of making successful comebacks with strikingly different attitudes.

Williams, 41-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger, is pessimistic about the future. Musial, 39, a mainstay with the St. Louis Cardinals, is extremely optimistic.

Williams, whose aching neck is bidding for a spot alongside Babe Ruth's upset stomach on the list of baseball's aggravating ailments, reported to spring training Tuesday and predicted his career may be at an end.

"There is considerable doubt that I can play," said the 6-time American league batting champion.

The neck ailment, suffered in spring training in 1959 when Williams punched a nerve, handicapped the big slugger last season and his batting average dwindled to .254.

The Red Sox already have lost hard-hitting Jackie Jensen, the league's most valuable player in 1958. He quit

Kansas Ties For Lead in Big 8 Circuit

By The Associated Press
Kansas State and Kansas, those arch-rivals of the midlands, are so well matched this time in their annual run for the Big Eight conference basketball title they may wind up settling a whole season of scuffling with a draw from a hat.

Kansas, beating Oklahoma, 63-52, Tuesday night, pulled into a first-place tie with K-State at 9-4—each with one game to go at home against much-whipped Nebraska.

If both win, as expected, they'll be co-champs and the conference's berth in the NCAA tournament will be determined by a draw since the teams split their regular season 2-game series.

Streaking St. Bonaventure, getting 59 points from brothers Tom and Sam Stith, ran its winning streak to 15 in a 115-96 rout of St. Vincent (Pa.) and unranked Seattle snapped Idaho State's winning streak at 17 with an 80-53 shellacking.

firmed that Schneider was indeed listed on the Menasha roster of 1936 and 1937 and that, in fact, Mervin was named an all-conference center. Nathan A. Calder, now retired and living in Florida during the winter, was Schneider's coach. We'll forward this evidence to Johnston, and hope it will remove a boy's doubts about his pater's football prowess.

When the Appleton Quarterback club veered from its normal interest (football) to sponsor six buses to last Friday's AHS-Sheboygan Central basketball game, it may have been the start of something rather permanent. The QB club hopes to add this transportation activity to its regular program and to use it as a selling point for increasing club membership. Walker Kotke, organization president, says he's especially sold on the bus idea for students because it eliminates some of the potential danger that rides with teen-agers when they travel by private car to out-of-town games. The following to Sheboygan was probably the biggest Appleton has ever sent to any out-of-town athletic event.

(C) — Philley was entitled to his two-bagger. Sawyer's action in sending in a pinch hitter for the relief pitcher was perfectly legal. A substitute for students because it eliminates some of the potential danger that rides with teen-agers when they travel by private car to out-of-town games. New Deductions Allowed for Loss

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

If your business or rental property was damaged by fire, storm, flood or other natural disaster in 1959, your tax loss deduction now may be bigger than ever allowed before. Also, if you suffered any major business casualty losses in years from 1956, on a new loss rule may permit you to collect a refund of taxes from these earlier years.

So for vital tax-saving reasons, recheck your earlier returns to see whether you may be able to get a substantial tax refund.

To indicate how the new rule pays off, suppose your business or rental building was severely damaged by fire in 1959. The building had a depreciated cost to you of $30,000, but actually was worth $100,000 on the open market, before the fire. Because of the fire, the value of the property slumped to $70,000.

Two Approaches
If the property had been your home or some other non-business or non-income-producing property, the treasury always was willing to let you deduct a loss of $30,000—the drop in value of your property caused by the fire. (Of course, the loss couldn't exceed the cost of the property.)

But for business or income-producing property, the treasury used a ratio approach. Since your property dropped 30 per cent in value because of the fire, your deductible casualty loss was 30 per cent of your depreciated cost of $30,000. This entitled you to deduct only $9,000 instead of the $30,000 which you could have deducted if the property had been your home.

One taxpayer took up his business loss deduction up to a circuit court—which held that the rule used for non-business property also should apply to business property. After studying its position, the treasury now agrees that the court was correct.

And to make its changed

viewpoint even sweeter, the Treasury will let you choose, for 1959 and for any earlier years not yet closed by the statute of limitations, between its old rule and its new rule—your choice depending, of course, on whichever rule is better for you.

Most persons will find that the new rule gives them a bigger deduction. But the old rule can be more advantageous if your property had fallen in value before the casualty. You should figure out your loss both ways and choose the method which benefits you most.

Here's an example in which you'd benefit by using the old rule. Assume that your property has a depreciated cost of $60,000. It had a market value of $40,000 before the fire, only $30,000 afterward. The deduction under the new rule would be $10,000 ($40,000 less $30,000). But with the old rule, which you are free to use for '59, your deduction would be $15,000.

Easier to Determine
The treasury also has made it easier for you to determine the drop in value caused by the casualty. While the correct method is to appraise your property before and after the damage, many taxpayers can't or don't do this. Some years ago, the tax court said that the cost of repairing the property could be used as the measure of the drop in value, and this past year, the treasury finally said "yes" on this too.

If you keep a record of the cost of repairs, you can use this instead of appraisals as your measure of casualty loss—as long as the repairs don't improve the value of your property over what it was before they were made.

JOIN THE POST-CRESCENT'S EUROPEAN HOLIDAY TOUR

With Charlie House

3 FULL WEEKS . . . JULY 10 TO AUGUST 1

The Post-Crescent is especially pleased to accept the privilege of providing its readers with an unusual travel opportunity that affords exceptional educational advantages in areas of the free world that are continual "news spots" of international affairs.

The management of the Post-Crescent considers the three-week tour arranged by the Mary Ebben Travel Service in conjunction with Scandinavian Airlines System of intriguing interest that combines the advantages of low cost European travel in an atmosphere of friendly sightseeing schedules with your own neighbors of Northeastern Wisconsin.

Nine European countries are included in the well-planned tour. Years of pleasant memories will be crowded into your sojourn abroad as you visit those places you have always heard about, often wanted to see "in person", and now offered you under the sponsorship of your local newspaper — the Appleton Post-Crescent — a community institution that is happy to recommend the planned tour as outlined in this ad.

Considering the cost in comparison to the advantages of such a tour, the Post-Crescent is confident that those Northeastern Wisconsin folk who take advantage of this exceptionally fine European Holiday Tour will agree that every provision of the plan bears the hallmark of "quality". From wonderful Copenhagen to Edinburgh, through breathtaking Austria, romantic Italy, zestful France, Holland and Belgium, and on to very proper London — not forgetting "old world" Germany; twenty-three exhilarating days of sightseeing and education awaits our neighbors in Northeastern Wisconsin who avail themselves of this opportunity recommended by the Post-Crescent.

20 Cars of Train Derail At Pulaski

Units Remain Upright; Damage Not Extensive

Continuing about 40 car lengths, the derailed car struck a bridge abutment and another 19 cars jumped the tracks.

One of the derailed cars was loaded with paper products, and another was carrying flooring.

One wrecker was dispatched from Green Bay to begin work on the east end of the derailment, and another was sent from Ashland to work from the other end.

The first passenger trains are not due until this afternoon. Officials said a bus would pick up passengers from the west at Pulaski and take them to Green Bay, and then would return to Pulaski to make connection for the westbound run.

August Erdman was the engineer on the train and P. L. Morgan was the conductor. Both are from Green Bay.

Arrangements were made to transfer passengers by bus until the roadbed is repaired.

The train, bound for Green Bay, consisted of 113 cars. Division officials said the brake rigging on about the 50th car gave way and wedged in a side track switch, causing the car behind it to derail.

Board Delays Rule on Craft Pay Charges

Contractor Denies He Paid Less Than Minimum Wage

The board of public works has decided to hold until Tuesday action on false wage statements charges made against Floyd Acheson, Appleton contractor.

A lengthy hearing Tuesday featured motion pictures of Acheson workmen taken by Alois C. Fischer, Operating Engineers union business agent, and comparison of payrolls submitted by contractors J. O. Johnson and Carson Green.

It was charged that Acheson used workmen in jobs in which they should have been paid higher rates under the city's minimum wage structure. Acheson maintained the workers didn't have to belong to a craft and that some were working on a trial basis.

Two Categories

Acheson's payroll records indicate machine operators and laborers. Other contractors' records indicate additional crafts for the same general type of work. The type of personnel to be used in city projects is not specified in city bid specifications.

Fischer's motion pictures purported to show a laborer running a bulldozer, but there was considerable argument over identification of the man.

The board delayed its decision, but apparently will take some action before opening bids Tuesday, some of which are for city projects on which Acheson may enter bids.

Nation's Bad Weather May Strike State

The massive blanket of snow, freezing rain and sleet laying across the interior of the nation is expected to creep into the state tonight and Thursday in the form of flurries or light snow.

The snow belt today extends from the Rockies eastward across the plains into Tennessee and Kentucky. Sleet and freezing rain glazed highways from Texas eastward as far as western South Carolina.

The southwest was hard hit. All schools in the Little Rock, Ark., area were closed by some three inches of snow and long-time ranchers in the district north of the Colorado-New Mexico border said the combination of cold and snow made the weather the worst in almost 60 years.

In the next five days Wisconsin weathermen see only possible snow flurries amounting to no more than three-quarters of an inch in the state. However, the temperatures will remain below normal as much as 8 to 12 degrees.

Home Mutual Has 60th Anniversary

The Home Mutual Insurance company Tuesday celebrated its 60th anniversary.

Founded at Seymour in 1900 by Julius Bubolz and 135 charter members, the firm began as a carrier of farm-land insurance and today writes premiums in excess of $7.3 million in fire and casualty coverage.

The company's original name was the Farmers Home Mutual, Tornado and Cyclone Insurance company of Seymour, Wis. Six mergers took place during Home Mutual's 60-year history.

The firm, originally operating in one Wisconsin county, is now licensed in 19 states and actively selling insurance in six — Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana, Missouri and Kentucky. In 1900, it was staffed by one employee and today has a payroll of more than 210.

Home Mutual in 1959 recorded direct premiums of $7,351,625. Of this total, casualty business accounted for $5,237,511.

Portrait of American Poet Presented in Drama Form

BY MARK BARRON

New York.—A series of biographical portraits of the late Pulitzer prize winning poetess Edna St. Vincent Millay have been movingly woven into a solo stage performance called "A Lovely Light."

It is performed with understanding by able actress Dorothy Stickney, who also has written this stage dramatization. Much of the words come direct from the letters and papers of Miss Millay as supplied by her younger sister, Norma Millay.

The premier Broadway audience at the Hudson theater was reverently quiet at times, then applauding Miss Stickney's reading of the tender poems or chuckling at the subtle humor Miss Millay reveals in her letters.

4-Year Stint

Miss Stickney and her director-husband, Howard Lindsay, have been working towards this moment for four years.

After first reading the letters four years ago, Miss Stickney at first wanted to do it on a grand scale as an opera. Then she decided to keep the stage version simple, and hold it to the single role of this poetess who died in 1950 at 58.

She has succeeded with a cohesive stage portrait woven

Peabody Manor Story on Radio, TV This Week

The story of Peabody Manor, home for retired people to be built by the Appleton Visiting Nurse association, will be heard on radio and TV this week.

Mrs. Dexter Wolfe will discuss the proposed resident home on Channel 5's Marianne Show at 4 p.m. today and Mrs. Paul Truttschel will appear on Michael Griffin's Postscript to the News show at 10:25 tonight.

Short question and answer spots will be heard over radio station WHBY throughout the week. The taped interviews were made by Mrs. Kenneth E. Kloeber.

Mrs. Eugene Pierce, past president of VNA, spoke over radio station WAPL Saturday.

Man Takes Jail Term Over $523 in Fines

Detroit — (U) — Charles W. Lewis, 37, chose to spend 90 days in jail rather than pay fines totaling $523 for 105 parking tickets.

The most recent ticket was dated December, 1958.

Lewis told Traffic Judge John D. Watts he had been walking since then.

A routine check disclosed the unpaid tickets after Lewis was arrested for jaywalking.

April 18 in Moscow and later visit Leningrad, Kiev, Odessa and Tiflis during eight weeks. A national company of the show will make the trip as part of the cultural exchange program. The Broadway run, now in its fourth year, will continue uninterrupted.

Famous Dog Story Appears In Film Form

Ouida's classic juvenile novel, "A Dog of Flanders," will appear in movie form Friday at the Appleton theater with David Ladd, son of actor Alan Ladd, and Spike of "Old Yeller" fame in the leading roles.

The simple yet poignant story of a boy, his aging grandfather and a dog they find was penned by the Dutch novelist in 1890. Since that time, the story has been reprinted in every language, including more than 80 printings in the United States alone.

"A Dog of Flanders" tells the story of a poor little Dutch boy who yearns to become a great painter. He finds two painter friends who help him face life after the death of his father and impoverished grandfather — a hot tempered artist who recognizes the boy's talent and Patraschke his faithful dog.

Co-starring with David Ladd are Donald Crisp and Theodore Bikel. The dog Spike plays the title role.
